

F.D.R. JR.'S WIFE BADLY INJURED

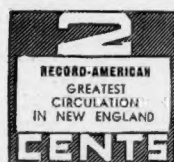

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 19 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., wife of the President's son, suffered a fractured pelvis and brain concussion in a fall from a horse while riding with the Farmington hunt near here today.

An attending physician at University Hospital, where Mrs. Roosevelt was brought for treatment, said her condition was satisfactory.

The accident occurred as Mrs. Roosevelt attempted to take her mount over a picket fence at "Highlands," the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Funsten. The horse fell on the rider. She was rendered unconscious. Young Roosevelt was attending classes at the University of Virginia Law School when he was informed of the accident. His wife is the former Ethel du Pont.

ALLIES SPURN ANY 'IMMORAL PEACE'

LONDON, March 19—All proposals for ending Europe's war are useless if they fall short of the "moral peace" which President Roosevelt himself has envisaged, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today.

In a ringing speech blaming Germany for Finland's collapse, Chamberlain disclosed for the first time that an allied army of 100,000 men had been ready to aid the Finns and warned that danger of aggression now lies at the doorstep of Sweden and Norway.

He glossed over the Hitler-Mussolini meeting at Brenner Pass, stating that Britain and France were prepared for any war initiative that might develop from it, and took occasion to brand as completely false Nazi claims that German aircraft had crippled the British home fleet in Saturday's raid on Scapa Flow.

He also warned Sweden and Norway they are in grave danger of aggression.

NAZIS BALKED FINN AID

Here are the main points of Chamberlain's lengthy resume of the European situation, the most important he has delivered in weeks:

1—Britain and France have dedicated themselves to fight until "moral peace" has been secured.

2—By threatening Sweden and Norway with armed intervention, Germany prevented dispatch of the 100,000 Anglo-French soldiers to Finland, part of which army would have been used for Sweden's own defense if requested.

3—The British government has informed United States Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles fully and conclusively of this country's intention to fight to a finish.

4—The Allies will not be rushed into any disastrous military "adventure."

5—Only one warship was damaged in the Scapa Flow raid Saturday; all battleships and battle cruisers came through unscathed.

HORE-BELISHA ATTACKS

The government's policy was attacked after Chamberlain spoke by the two opposition leaders, Liberal Sir Archibald Sinclair and Laborite Clement Attlee, and by Leslie Hore-Belisha, who was quoted as war minister in a cabinet shake-up on Jan. 5. All three scored the government for allowing Germany to keep the initiative in the war.

Hore-Belisha, chief critic of the government's policy in last week's brief Commons debate, declared today that events have shown that it was "unfortunate that the Allies allowed their intended initiative to be wrested from them."

Asserting that the blockade was the "sole offensive weapon they have employed to bring about the defeat of Germany," Hore-Belisha asked:

"Is it enough or must we intensify our pressure in other directions?"

He declared that those who visited the Finnish front were un-

Mount Etna In Eruption

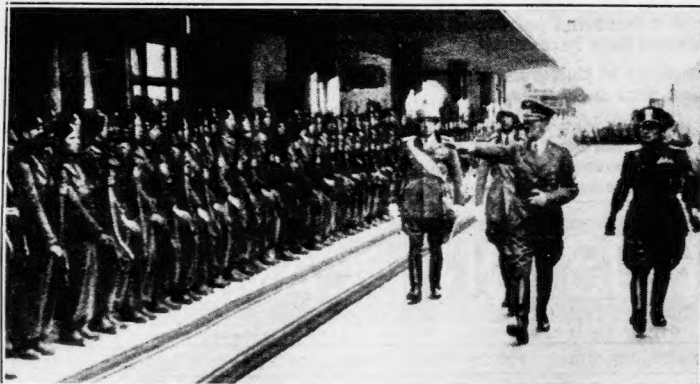

CATANIA, Sicily, March 19 (INS)—The central volcanic crater of Mt. Etna erupted today, showering the countryside with the heaviest rain of fiery stones, ashes and sand in 40 years.

The blazing volcanic material fell as far away as Messina and Reggio Calabria, nearly 40 miles from Mount Etna.

Simultaneously, violent and lengthy earth rumblings were felt in coast ports like Messina.

LINER QUEEN MARY SLATED TO OUTFIT AT HUB DRYDOCK

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The giant liner Queen Mary may be sent to Boston for drydocking and overhauling before she joins the new Mauretania in service as a troopship, a British spokesman hinted today.

Although Cunard Line officials refused to comment on future plans for the expensive liners, the spokesman said it "would not be unreasonable to assume" the Queen Mary would be sent to Boston, where the largest drydock in the United States is situated.

The waterfront near 30th st. buzzed with activity today as new crews swarmed over the British ships. A small army of workmen began loading the Mauretania with sea ballast, indicating she was preparing to sail.

ADD 770 TO CREWS

Their skeleton crews replenished by 770 new men, the 81,000-ton Queen Mary and the 35,000-ton Mauretania were ready to slip out of their wartime haven with any tide to transport either Australian or Canadian troops to the war zone.

Arriving in New York harbor unheralded yesterday, the Cunard White Star liner Antonia docked beside the Mauretania and soon 300 of the new men went aboard her. A short time later her balance of the new complement went by bus to the Queen Mary to join the 110 already there.

Cunard White Star officials, holding to a policy of wartime secrecy, declined to indicate what might follow, but it was pointed out in Washington that only routine clearance would be required for sailings of either ship.

READY TO SAIL

It seemed apparent every effort was being made to prepare the Queen Mary for an early departure. She was given a new coat of admiralty gray, and a dredge cleared away mud which had gathered about her hull since she was laid up at the start of the war.

Likewise, there was evidence the Mauretania might leave shortly, for she was being loaded with cargo, presumably provisions for a voyage.

Since the Queen Mary is too large to pass through the Panama canal, she would necessarily have to circle either Cape Horn or the Cape of Good Hope if destined to carry Anzacs (Australian troops). The Mauretania could make the canal crossing. It was considered possible both might go to Halifax, where the second divisions of

White House Sees No Hint of Peace In 'Inside Reports'

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, said today that on the basis of authoritative reports received by the American government "peace headlines would appear to be very empty."

The White House aide asserted that no information had been transmitted to this government to support published stories that 11 points had been suggested as a basis for European peace at yesterday's conference between Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

Asked whether he could say anything about reports from Rome, Early replied:

"Nothing more than that I think you can say, on the basis of all authorized reports received by this government, which have been made available to the President and have been carefully read and analyzed by him, there seems to be no basis in fact for reports published in London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, or other capitals that give an authoritative basis for peace; that the publication of those reports should not change the opinions of newspaper readers of this country and others by giving them hope for peace or cause for despair of peace. "In other words," Early continued, "on the basis of authoritative reports this government has received from representatives through the world, particularly in Europe, peace headlines would appear to be very empty."

(Editor's Note—It is probable a number of the reports mentioned by Mr. Early came from Sumner Welles, under-Secretary of State, now about to leave Europe after a "fact finding" expedition to European capitals.)

Connolly Is Found Guilty; Wife to Run for His Office

John Patrick Connolly, former clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Courts, was found guilty today on indictments charging him with political "job sales" and conspiracy. A few hours after a haggard, fatigued Suffolk Superior Criminal Court jury had returned its guilty verdict, breaking an all-night deadlock, Connolly's wife, Mrs. Mary Josephine "Molly" Connolly, announced she will be a candidate for election to the position her husband resigned under fire.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN PATRICK CONNOLLY
Ex-Court Clerk Guilty, Faces Jail Term

She is the mother of eight children.

The former clerk of courts now faces a possible maximum sentence of 10 years in State Prison, as two of the indictments charge felonies in 12 counts.

Convicted with Connolly in the conspiracy indictment was William T. Conway of Dorchester, his close friend, political associate and alleged "good will fund" collector.

Today's jury findings against Connolly and Conway were returned after an all night deadlock, finally broken at the close of ten hours and ten minutes of deliberation.

Mrs. Connolly's announcement of her candidacy for her husband's former county job came as she conferred with bail commission officials at the office of Dist. Atty. William J. Foley.

She said she hoped to obtain her husband's freedom sometime today by furnishing the $10,000 bond set by Judge George F. Leary.

Haggard and weary after her all-night vigil, awaiting the jury verdict, Mrs. Connolly said:

"John and I firmly believed to the very last that the verdict would be not guilty."

"It should have been not guilty. But John will prove his innocence and clear his name in the end."

"Come down and see me when I am clerk of Suffolk Superior Civil Courts and I'll tell you more about John's vindication."

"You mean you're going to run for election for the clerkship?" she was asked.

"I certainly am, and I believe public sympathy for my husband's wrongful conviction will bring me

WAIT ENDS — For days 'n' days, as Connolly trial went on, Mrs. Basil Wright of East Boston waited patiently (as above) for word with juror-husband. And today, as trial ended, they were reunited.

Fugitive Sees Her Children, Vanishes

NEW YORK, March 19—After a brief and emotional reunion with her two youngest daughters, Mrs. Lydia Pedroja Simpson had vanished within the confines of New York City today, a hunted fugitive from the Connecticut State Hospital for the Insane.

She was believed to be penniless. Divorced from Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, paleontologist of the American Museum of Natural History, Mrs. Simpson escaped from the Connecticut asylum Sunday night or early Monday, using a pass key she had somehow fashioned from a soap imprint of the original.

GREETES HER CHILDREN

She effected her escape only a day before she might have been given her legal freedom, for she was to have appeared yesterday in New Haven court to answer an old breach of peace charge. The session, in effect, would have been a sanity hearing.

Instead, today there was a 12-state alarm out for her.

For the few moments of kisses and embraces of her two daughters, Joan, 12, and Betty, 11, Mrs. Simpson endured more hardship than would have seemed possible for a woman of her age.

She had not eaten for almost 24 hours when she stationed herself at a spot which she knew her daughters would have to pass from school to their home.

RUSH INTO HER ARMS

Sighting them, she rushed across the street and dropped on her knees before them, crying:

F. D. Still Has Slight Fever

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt still had a slight touch of fever today, but he decided to resume work at his office on limited schedule, including a noontime discussion of budgetary and appropriation problems with Budget Director Harold Smith.

White House officials said the Chief Executive, suffering with a cold for a week, had a temperature of 99.2 degrees, a little more than half a degree above normal, this morning. That was two-tenths of a degree lower than yesterday morning, however.

"My darlings, my darlings! How are you?"

She was weeping. The girls cried "Mother" and rushed into her arms. She chatted with them for about a half hour before she again disappeared.

Dr. Simpson declined to discuss his daughters' reactions to the visit and said he did not know where his former wife had gone. Mrs. Simpson, formerly of Buffalo, Kan., was committed to the hospital Jan. 27, 1939.

BAD CHECKS HALT HER STAGE QUEST

PROVIDENCE, March 19—Fashionably attired and attractive, she came out of the Golden West four years ago and hoped for her "big chance" on effete Broadway.

Today, the dreams of Toby Foley, 23, lay crushed under charges that she left a trail of worthless checks and unpaid hotel bills in Boston and other New England cities.

In tears, the girl confessed to the charges after her arrest here, according to Detective Captain James F. Rogers.

Later, Detective Commander Thomas F. Rattigan said the girl would be turned over to Worcester police, who, he said, hold a warrant for her on worthless check charges.

He added that police here had also received another warrant for the girl's arrest from New Haven police for allegedly evading a hotel bill there.

"She won't talk much about herself, and she doesn't want her family to know about her troubles now," said Capt. Rogers.

But, the girl did tell him, he said, that she was graduated from the University of Montana four years ago.

Then Capt. Rogers said, she went to New York, and two years later fell in love which failed.

Since that time, she has been traveling alone throughout New England, stopping at fashionable hotels and leaving behind either unpaid bills or worthless checks, according to her alleged confession.

FROM ASYLUM TO DAUGHTERS—"My darlings, my darlings!" cried Mrs. Lydia P. Simpson as she was reunited with her daughters, Betty, 11, whom she is kissing, and Joan, 12 . . . after 24-hour flight from Connecticut State Hospital for the Insane.

Trained Group Will Gather Census Here

Uncle Sam's private "information please" army will undergo rigorous training, it was learned today, in preparation for their census quiz of Mr. and Mrs. Greater Boston and all the kiddies scheduled to start April 2.

Chosen for their tact some 1300 enumerators drawn from more than 7000 applicants will be schooled in overcoming objections to personal questions through a lecture course supplemented by motion pictures.

The local army will canvass residents of Suffolk, Norfolk, Middlesex and Essex counties beginning April 2 when the 16th census of the United States officially gets under way.

This year more than ever, enumerators will require a tactful approach since considerable rumpus has already been raised over questions believed to be too personal. In order that the census work may go smoothly hereabouts elaborate precautions have been undertaken by Patrick J. Murray, area manager, and his staff.

SPECIAL CHARTS
They have even prepared special charts in Braille to permit blind and deaf mutes to understand the questions and answer personally if they prefer.

Storm center of the dispute which has stirred this section, and the nation are questions number 32 and 33.

No. 32 requires a statement of the amount of money wages or salary received, including commissions, during 1939.

SENATOR TOBEY Hits at Census

While No. 33 seeks to find out if incomes of $50 or more were received from sources other than money wages of salary in 1939.

The Greater Boston area is one of three districts into which the state has been divided. It in turn is split into three sub-divisions with each in charge of a supervisor.

Murray will direct census activities of supervisors and assistants in nine "field offices" from headquarters in the Boston Chamber of Commerce Building.

Boston offices are located at 107

Mass. ave. Back Bay, in the old Haymarket Relief Station and at 1478 Dorchester ave., Dorchester.

WILL HAVE COMPLETE DATA

Outside offices will be in the postoffices in Lynn, Lawrence and Somerville and at 10 Kearney st., Lowell, at 1430 Mass. ave., Cambridge and at 1245 Hancock st., Quincy.

When the work for the whole country is completed, W. L. Austin, Director of Census believes the United States will have the most complete statistical record possessed by any nation.

He says that vital knowledge will be developed on income, mass-buying power, unemployment and housing.

But before the work is completed many census chiefs fear they may encounter a "no information" strike by angry citizens.

Already the Senate has been rocked by blasts of census opponents and observers are wondering what the effect will be on the public.

TOBEY BLASTS

Particularly in this section since Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire has been among the more vigorous in denouncing certain of the questions to be asked.

Sen. Tobey has already suggested striking out salary and wage questions while those dealing with housing—specifically, bathtubs and outdoor toilets—mortgages, matrimony and divorce have been particular targets of those objecting to personal questions.

Although little has been said about penalties for refusal to answer questions, or giving false information, there are sharp, strong and long teeth in the census law.

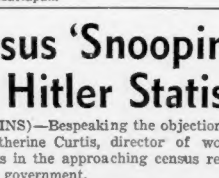

Under the Act of June 21, 1929 a fine of $500 or imprisonment for a year, or both, may be imposed for false answers.

For refusal to answer there is a fine up to $100 or 60 days in prison or both.

Obstructing an enumerator is punishable by a possible fine up to $1000 or a sentence of a year in prison or both if it results in inaccurate accounting.

"I am going to commit suicide," is what he said.

His wife and brother phoned North End police, almost at the same time, and a squad of officers under command of Lieut. Louis DiSessa rushed to his jewelry store.

They found Schonfeld unconscious on the floor and took him to Boston City Hospital.

He died a few minutes after being admitted. He had taken a powerful disinfectant, doctors said.

Rose sued Robert Charlton of West Haven because of remarks Charlton allegedly made against him during a town meeting in 1938.

Attorneys reached a settlement just before the case was to go to trial.

Lonely Man Of Jail Asks Freedom

A man, alone, appeared before Chairman Ralph W. Robart and the advisory board of pardons at State Prison today.

"The lonely man" he is called at the prison, 62-year-old Felix Janois who is serving life for the butcher knife slaying of Frank Tolem at Easthampton in 1911.

Guards say he has not had a visitor in five years; and since his commitment he has had only 10 visitors. They were countrymen, not one of whom he knew personally.

Without friends or counsel he pleaded for his freedom before the board.

His case was called as a result of a letter he wrote Governor Salt-onstall, asking mercy; the board announced it had taken his case under advisement and would report to the governor.

Janois explained Tolem had been stabbed in a drunken brawl; that he had had a knife to defend himself, and that he had no clear knowledge of what happened.

"Since then I have been punished for my deed through 29 long years," he said.

He has no relatives, no friends. He is, he said, alone.

Gale Halts Byrd's Work

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)

A 65-mile gale halted the preparation of the government Antarctic expedition's east base and temporarily isolated five members of the party.

A wireless dispatch to the Navy said the gale struck as the supply ship North Star and flagship Bear were about to put ashore the last 150 tons of winter supplies remaining aboard the North Star.

The five men isolated at the small island camp possibly suffered discomfort but had supplies of food, fuel and sleeping bags, it was said. They reported "everything okay" with their portable radio set in a message received by the anchored ships.

TOLEDO, O., March 19 (AP)—With the hint of a 5-inch hunting knife protruding from his chest, Ralph Toland, 35, walked into a downtown hotel today and confronted his estranged wife, a waitress.

Toland then withdrew the weapon from near his heart, threw the knife on the table in front of her, and staggered out. He collapsed a block from the hotel and was taken to a hospital where attendants said his condition is critical.

Charges Census 'Snooping' Same As Hitler Statistical Surveys

WASHINGTON, March 19 (INS)—Bespeaking the objection of American womanhood to "census snooping" questions, Miss Catherine Curtis, director of women investors in America, Inc., charged that some of the inquiries in the approaching census resemble statistical surveys of Germany made by Chancellor Hitler's government.

"The present system of rationing and regimentation of the German standard of living resulted from similar statistical surveys and studies," made by the Hitler regime, Miss Curtis wrote to Senator Tobey (R.) of New Hampshire, arch foe of the census.

"Does the same sinister objective underlie the present insistence by some that we be compelled to answer these questions, despite widespread public protest?" she asked in her letter, which she made public.

Miss Curtis, who wrote her attack on the census from a hospital bed to which she is confined, due to accident injuries, testified two weeks ago before the Senate Commerce subcommittee, in favor of Tobey's resolutions to strike two income questions from the schedule.

She assured Tobey that members of her organization "and millions of other American women, are solidly behind you in this fight, and looking to you to carry on this crusade in their behalf."

Amid this rising crescendo of criticism, the Census Bureau was disclosed to be enrolled in still another controversy, centering around allegations it has ordered enumerators to work on Sundays.

Census Director William L. Austin in a published letter to Samuel Caver, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, wrote:

"It is unbelievable that there are those who for purposes of expediency will stoop to the circulation of such reports to impair the good will of a bureau of the government whose record through 126 years entitles it at least to the benefit of a doubt.

"For your information, permit me to say that it has never been the policy of the census bureau to work its enumerators on Sundays, and the 1940 census will be no exception to the rule."

Caver had written Austin expressing hope such reports were not true.

BISHOP MANNING BLASTS RUSSELL IN C. C. N. Y. POST

NEW YORK, March 19—Led by Bishop William T. Manning* of the Episcopal church, New York was in arms today over approval of Bertrand Russell, English peer, philosopher and writer, to a teaching post at City College of New York.

The approval of Russell, already appointed William James lecturer at Harvard for the year 1940-1941, would bring him here for two years at an $8000 annually salary as soon as his year is completed at Harvard.

Russell, branded by his critics as a "moral bankrupt" and an "undesirable alien," was approved for the C. C. N. Y. post by an 11 to 7 vote by the Board of Higher Education. The vote was taken in reconsideration of an earlier, unanimous approval.

APPOINTMENT FOUGHT

For weeks, New York's civic leaders have battled the appointment on the basis that the English writer is "a recognized propagandist against both religion and morality."

Bishop Manning started the controversy in a letter to a New York newspaper, taking especial exception to this passage from Russell's "Life," "Education and the Good Life":

"In teaching my own children, I shall try to prevent them from learning a moral code which I regard as harmful. I shall not teach that faithfulness to one's partner through life is in any way desirable, or that a permanent marriage should exclude temporary episodes."

The white-haired elderly philosopher, a thrice-married member of the English peerage, now is teaching at the University of California in Los Angeles and will lecture at Harvard before becoming professor of philosophy at City College in 1941.

Ordway Tead, chairman of the higher board, in announcing that the board had refused to reconsider its appointment, made no direct reference to criticisms that Russell was an "enemy of religion and morality," but said:

FAMED PHILOSOPHER

"Professor Russell is one of the two or three most outstanding living mathematical philosophers, with over thirty books to his credit, of which only three or four have been popular treatments of current problems."

"At the College of the City of New York," he added, "Professor Russell will teach logic, the philosophy of mathematics and the philosophy of science. He brings to this position the reputation of a world-renowned scholar now rounding out a distinguished career."

Expressing "astonishment" at the board's defiance to the views of a majority of our people, Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons said he would fight to have Russell's salary stricken from the school budget.

Bishop Manning issued a statement declaring the board's action was "an offense against public decency."

"The support given to this scandalous appointment by educators and by some heads of colleges," he said, "should open the eyes of our citizens generally and especially of parents to the influences which are today at work upon the minds of our young people in many of our colleges and universities."

The Parent Association of City College and a majority of the student body had asked the board to uphold the appointment.

Inquest Ordered In Ormond's Death

Judge Arthur P. Stone, in East Cambridge court today, ordered an inquest into the mystery death of Charles Ormond, 61, secret naval attaché, who died last Friday, two days after being arrested by Cambridge police on a charge of drunkenness.

The inquest will be held Friday of this week in East Cambridge, with at least 35 witnesses summoned to testify.

Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford of Middlesex county, who sought the inquest in an attempt to clear up conflicting stories and circumstances surrounding the death, has begun the issuance of summonses.

FIANS FULL INQUIRY

The summonses will go to all persons known to have had anything to do with Ormond from the time of his arrest early Wednesday until Dr. David C. Dow, the medical examiner, received the body for autopsy and discovered that death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

These will include all Cambridge police officers who handled the naval attaché, all attaches of East Cambridge courthouse who came in contact with him, all persons at Cambridge City Hospital who attended him, all court officers who had any connection with him and all persons who were in the courthouse detention room, where Ormond waited to be arraigned in court, but then became too ill.

FIND CAB DRIVER

The probe by Bradford was launched after Sheriff Joseph Mc-

Elroy of Middlesex County requested that "in fairness to the dead man, his family, the police and an office" an inquest be sought.

Cambridge police made various conflicting reports on the man's condition at and during the time he was under arrest.

The cab driver who took Ormond from the South Station to Charles town in his search for lodging was located today by police investigators.

Sergeant Inspector James O'Connor with Inspector James Quinn of Cambridge police, assigned to a case by Chief Timothy F. Leah yesterday, said the driver told him he had taken Ormond first to boarding house and then to St. Y. M. C. A.

The driver, police said, told him he dropped Ormond at 4:35 p.m. on Tuesday and that while paying a 29-cent fare with a one dollar bill he exposed bills of larger denominations in his billfold.

Following his death, police had revealed Ormond only had 15 cents on his person when they booked him for drunkenness early Wednesday, and had no billfold.

Russell Code Excerpts

Passages from Bertrand Russell's writings which have been criticized as destructive to American youth follow:

"In America . . . where law and custom alike are based upon the dreams of spinsters."

"If I were a medical man I would prescribe a holiday to any patient who considered his work important."

6 Rescued Fishermen Home Amid Cheers

Worn out by a five-day battle against raging gales—two of them without food or water—the seven-man crew of the Boston fishing dragger Providence was towed into port today for a royal welcome from family and friends.

SAFE—Rescued by Coast Guardsmen after being missing aboard fishing dragger Providence, Anthony Fricano enjoys a smoke.

MORE LIGHT NEEDED

PARIS (AP)—Members of the public works committee of the French Chamber of Deputies have asked the government to increase the lighting in Paris and other large cities to halt the rise in accidents which has resulted from the slightly blackouts.

The tiny dragger, picked up by the Coast Guard cutter Algonquin drifting 80 miles off Thatcher's island, reached Commercial wharf at dawn, singing the praises of their rescuers.

On board was the craft's 24-year-old skipper, Paul Pirano of Richmond st., North End; his father, Frank, 56, and his three brothers, Leo, 22, Joseph, 26 and Anthony, 19. The other crew members were Batista Manofu, 32, of Hanover st., and Leonard Aiello, 22, of North st., North End.

After a noisy welcome from 100 fishermen, they went home for a joyful reunion.

"We never thought we would make it," Paul, the young captain, declared.

"We broke our crankshaft on Thursday morning. Just when we began to fish. There was a south-east gale blowing, and for the next 24 hours we drifted offshore. The waves were so high we thought we would go over every minute. Then the storm swung around to the northeast and began bringing us in again.

"We saw one fishing dragger, and we put over a dory to row toward it. I guess he didn't see us.

"The last two days we didn't have any food, and the only water we got was by melting ice.

"It was way below freezing and we broke up fish boxes and gear to keep warm.

"We didn't see another thing until the Algonquin sighted us at 3:30 Monday afternoon. Those boys at sea were good to us. They towed us for four hours and gave us plenty to eat. Then they turned us over to the patrol boat Fauve, which brought us right up the harbor.

"If the wind hadn't changed around to the northeast, we would have been drifting out to sea yet, I guess."

Joseph Fricano, one of seven North End fishermen rescued after five-day battle against raging seas, holds tight to his two youngsters, Providence, and Vincenza, after he arrived safely in Boston today.

Plan Expansion Of Tourist Trade

Plans for expanding New England's $500,000,000 annual income from tourist trade were on the program today of recreational activities from the six New England states. They were meeting for the weekly dinner of the Boston Advertising Club at the Hotel Statler.

Presiding at the dinner will be Louis Glaser, Advertising Club president. Toastmaster will be Dudley Harmon, executive vice-president of the New England council. Glenwood J. Sherrard, chairman of the New England council's recreational development program, will be the principal speaker.

6 HURT IN FIRE LEAP

TRACY, Minn., March 19 (AP)—A half dozen guests were reported injured today when fire raced through the three-story Hotel Tracy, forcing them to jump from windows and driving about 30 others into the street.

Jacqueline Seeks Record

LOS ANGELES, March 19 (AP)—Streaking along three miles above the earth, Jacqueline Cochran, American aviatrix, hopes tomorrow to better the world's 2000 kilometer air speed record of 311 miles an hour.

Weather permitting, she plans to fly a single-engine, oxygen-equipped monoplane once in each direction over a 1000 kilometer route extending from Mt. Wilson observatory, just east of here, to a pylon located 30 miles west of Albuquerque, N. M.

The present record for 2000 kilometers was established last July by two German army fliers in a twin-engine Junkers bomber.

City Beano Plan Studied by Council

A big municipal beano game, with large cash prizes and Mayor Tobin as its head, was urged by City Councilor Joseph M. Scannell to lower the city's welfare and hospital cost.

Members of the city council balked at passing the order and it was referred to a later session for detailed study.

Greek Freighter Flashes SOS Call

MANILA, March 19 (AP)—The Greek freighter, Valentine, 4799 tons, flashed an SOS tonight that it was aground in the North Channel, of Hainan Strait, French Indo-China.

Globe wireless, which intercepted the distress call, said it had no further details.

Guns and Rock Salt May Greet Church Vandals

DALLAS, March 19 (AP)—Irate farmers today threatened vigilante action to halt wild parties in the Rogers Community Church and graveyard.

Fun loving youths of the Dallas high school set have wrecked the old church, lugged its pulpit into the yard and stacked the pews in a corner.

Flat tombstones in the adjoining 75-year-old graveyard have been ripped up and laid side by side for a dance floor.

Churchmen, headed by T. B. Crosby, threatened to load their shot guns with salt and lie in wait for the defiant youngsters.

"We'll organize a vigilante committee," said Crosby, a church trustee, before going to the grand jury with his complaint.

Behind him came E. M. Conolly who said the youngsters knocked over the gravestones, cursed and shouted and tore boards off the church to build bonfires.

Services in the church had to be discontinued.

Churchmen recently captured 89 youngsters on the church property and held them until deputy sheriffs arrived. Officers took the youths names but no charges were filed.

Parents were notified but still the youngsters come to make whoopee almost nightly, the farmers said.

Bay Stater, Finn Hero, to Join Allies

NEW YORK, March 19—War may be everything Sherman said it was, but young John F. Hasey of Bridgewater, Mass., despite his wounds, said today he is going back for more of it.

Just returned from the Soviet-Finnish war zone, Hasey, with his arm in a sling, said that soon he will go to France to serve with the American Ambulance Corps.

Hasey, who was with the American Ambulance Corps in Finland, suffered a broken arm when struck by the fragment from a Soviet bomb while answering a call to pick up 200 wounded Finns.

His feet were also badly frozen, and he lost all his toenails. Upon his arrival on the tiny Manhattan, his feet were encased in soft-fur-lined Finnish boots.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hasey of Bridgewater, characterized the Russian soldiers as "no good." He continued:

"They have no leadership, and they are not fighters. The number of Russian dead, buried in the snow in the areas now to be taken over by Russia, is appalling."

Hasey's parents and his brother greeted him upon his arrival. Concerning his immediate plans, he said he would stay in New York a few days, then go to Washington to be received by the Finnish minister.

And then . . . off again for the war zone in France.

Arrest Leads To Bogus Bills

Arrest of a 20-year-old New Hampshire youth by Back Bay police today led to seizure of 30 counterfeit $5 bills, counterfeiting plates and other materials by Federal agents at a Dorei, N. H., farmhouse.

The youth was picked up by Back Bay police after he allegedly attempted to pass a spurious $5 bill in a Massachusetts ave. drug store. Treasury agents were called after Rollins was questioned. The seizure followed information which he allegedly gave to authorities.

LAWRENCE PLANE STOP

LAWRENCE, March 19 — The Lawrence municipal airport will soon be a regular stop on the Boston & Maine Railroad under plans outlined by the railroad to City Council. The stop would be part of a proposed new route between Portland, Me., and New York.

WHISKEY, PAJAMAS STIR PYNES' TRIAL

Not merely a hooker of whiskey, but double hookers were served out by Mrs. Mary C. Pyne of Arlington, 60 and white-haired, it was testified today in Middlesex Probate Court, where she seeks separate support from John W. Pyne, also 60 and white-haired.

Three daughters, a son, a daughter-in-law and a niece testified today for Pyne and the trend of the hearing turned from the differences between the North and South of Ireland to Mrs. Pyne's drinking and her wearing of pajamas.

Asked if his stepmother was "half lit" one day last summer when he met her and Pyne while out riding, one of the sons, John A. Pyne, last witness in the case, hastened to assure Atty. Thomas F. Sullivan, the father's counsel, that she was "all lit."

IN FLOWERED PAJAMAS

Not only that, the witness said, but she was wearing pajamas in the car, and he knew pajamas of various types.

"You heard your stepmother testify yesterday," he was asked, "that she never went around in pajamas?"

Pyne said he had heard her.

Q—When did you see her wearing pajamas? A—Late last summer, my wife and I were riding along a road toward Lexington. I saw a car ahead of us. I pulled up alongside of it and stopped. My father was driving and his wife was in the car. She had on pajamas with a street coat over them.

Q—Were they pink pajamas? A—No, they were not pink pajamas. They were light pajamas with a brown flower.

DOUBLE HOOKERS, TOO

Q—Were they the pajamas she wore in the winter time? A—No, they were not. In the winter she had bathgown pajamas trimmed with light fur.

Q—Was she half-lit at that time? A—More than half-lit; she was all lit.

Q—Did you ever see her drink? A—Yes, beer, whiskey and wine; straight whiskey at times. She used to serve double hookers of whiskey.

Under cross-examination by Atty. John J. Fox, counsel for Mrs. Pyne, the stepson declared they were not Leach pajamas, but they were "summer pajamas."

Q—Were they bed pajamas? A—No.

WIFE WEARS THEM

Q—Well, what is your definition of the difference between bed pajamas and beach pajamas? A—Beach pajamas are loose and flowing and bed pajamas fit close that's the type she had on.

Q—Does your wife wear pajamas? A—Yes.

Q—Tight or loose kind? A—Both.

Q—To bed? A—I said my wife wears both types of pajamas around the house.

Mrs. Mary A. Pyne of Magazine st., Cambridge, daughter-in-law of the elder Pyne, also had seen Mrs. Pyne in pajamas, she said, and had several times refused drinks offered by the plaintiff.

On New Year's Eve, according to the witness, when she again had refused Mrs. Pyne's offer of a drink, the elder woman said:

Farley Knows Way Around

The Ickes harpooning of Jim Farley is not so simple as the whaling industry sponsored by Simple Simon.

Jim has been eating meat and potatoes for a long time and knows his way around a 24-foot ring without using a yardstick.

Old Jim has been on more spots than benzene. And in politics he is slicker than three coats of enamel.

The Democrats and Republicans both seem to have the same idea about reform within the party. Get rid of the other guy before he can investigate you.

When Jim walks the plank it will be against the grain.

"Well, I've just had a couple of balls. I wish I'd married a man who drank, so I could enjoy myself. He's an awful dummy."

WOMEN ON STAND

Other witnesses today included Miss Mary Pyne of Orchard rd., Medford, a daughter of Pyne; Christine Pyne, another daughter, also of Orchard rd.; Mrs. Emily Mood, a married daughter of Orchard rd., and Nora C. McManon of Columbia rd., Dorchester, a niece.

All testified to Mrs. Pyne's drinking and wearing pajamas. On the witness stand earlier, Mrs. Pyne herself had discussed Ireland, its topography, refinement and educational facilities.

"So north and south Ireland don't get along very well," Pyne's attorney asked Mrs. Pyne at one point.

"They're getting along as well as the north and south of this country," replied the elderly wife.

Sullivan had asked the question after Mrs. Pyne admitted she didn't like her husband's brogue.

"But you came from Ireland and your parents came from Ireland?" Fox asked, then: "Didn't your parents have a brogue?"

"No, they did not. They were educated people. They came from the north of Ireland—the British part."

THERE'S no doubt about it in the mind of Betty Allen, young actress . . . Hank Greenberg, first baseman of the Detroit Tigers, is "head man" in her heart. Betty's now seeking an annulment of her 1937 marriage to Gus Bivona, clarinet player, but when that's accomplished . . . well, she's not saying exactly . . .

"Just say ours is a beautiful friendship . . . and, anyway, Hank can't get married until the baseball season is over."

Bodies of 15 Miners Found Entombed

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 19 (AP)—Rescue crews removed seven more bodies from the Willow Grove coal mine before dawn, raising to 15 the known dead from Saturday's explosion which entombed 11.

Finally six others were brought to the surface and two men died from gas fumes when they rushed into the mine without masks in a rescue attempt.

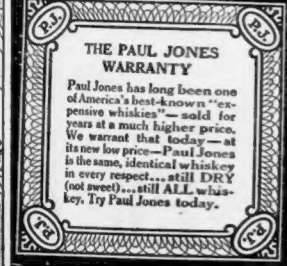

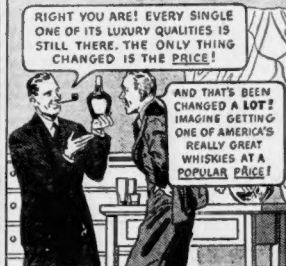

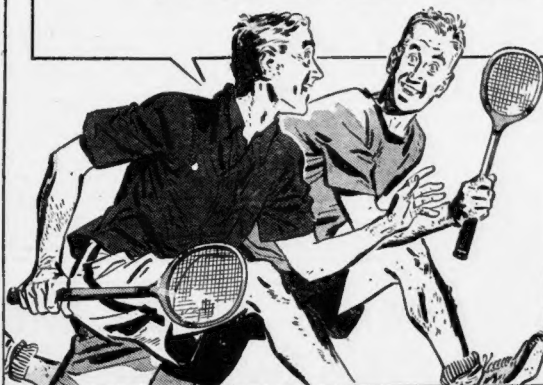

W. R. Williams, public relations consultant for the Hanna Coal Co., owner of the mine, predicted that 17 additional bodies would be found in one chamber clogged by fallen six. Company officers said 113 came out of the mine safely.

30 'CASH MURDERS' LAID TO DEATH MOB

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—Gangland assassinations numbering 30 were connected directly or indirectly today with the operations of a murder-for-cash mob uncovered by Brooklyn Dist. Atty. William F. O'Dwyer.

HELD IN New York gang murder is Irving Cohen, alias Jack Cohen, who has been playing small bits in Hollywood films.

The prosecutor planned to take his informers—two lesser shots in the murder ring who tipped him to a tangled tale of wholesale slayings—to Monticello, in up-state Sullivan County, where the gang's work claimed at least three lives.

The "squealers" are Abraham (Bert) Levine and Anthony (the Duke) Maffett, who were scheduled for appearance before the Monticello grand jury today.

NEW ARRESTS MADE
Revelations of the ring's activities reached such proportions that O'Dwyer planned to ask for an additional judge to help hear the case in Kings County, Brooklyn.

Developments included the arrest in Hollywood of Irving Cohen, player of tough guy and policeman roles in the movies, who, O'Dwyer said, was wanted for the killing of Walter Sage in July, 1937. Sage's ice-pick punctured body was dumped into Swan lake in Sullivan County.

In another move O'Dwyer obtained the detention in $100,000 bail of Louis Capone of Brooklyn (no relation to Al Capone) as a material witness in connection with the operation of the syndicate.

GANGSTERS AMONG SLAIN
Louis Capone was exonerated five years ago in the garage slaying of Joseph Amberg and Morris Kessler, two victims of the mob's planned slaughter, O'Dwyer said.

As authorities continued to fit in details of the "honeycomb of destruction," it became apparent that the gang was responsible for the slaying of several witnesses in the trial of Racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and assorted Brooklyn underworld characters, some of whom were mob-members themselves, but knew too much.

In addition, they had a working agreement with the Detroit Purple Gang in loan shark racketeering and dabbled in gambling and prostitution.

Huge Aviation Merger Bared

NEW YORK, March 19 (INS)—Merger of the Curtiss-Wright Corp., a $105,000,000 concern, and Atlas Corp., one of the country's largest investment firms, was announced, constituting the largest financial development in American aviation history.

The consolidation not only places Curtiss-Wright in a strategic position amid the flood of war-time aviation orders, but also makes available $26,500,000 in liquid capital for promotion of peace-time operations.

Curtiss-Wright has been a leading manufacturer of aircraft since its inception, while Atlas Corp. during the last ten years, has been built up to its present market value of $60,000,000.

Home Cummings Endows Clinic

WASHINGTON, March 19 (INS)—Former Atty.-Gen. Homer S. Cummings has endowed a clinic at George Washington University to study high blood pressure and the diseases resulting from it, one of which was responsible for the death of his wife, it was announced today.

Supported by what is to be known as the Cecilia Cummings Research Fund, the new clinic, only one of its kind in the country, will be headed by Dr. Paul F. Dickens, professor at the university's medical school and the late Mrs. Cummings' physician.

'Frozen Sleep' Cures Addict

DETROIT, March 19 (AP)—Two medical scientists reported today they had been able to cure a hopeless drug addict by the application of "frozen sleep."

The scientists, Dr. J. M. Berris and Dr. M. K. Newman, Grace Hospital therapists, said the addict, a 23-year-old woman, emerged from a three-day refrigeration treatment, showing no symptoms of addiction and no longer craving drugs.

They said the woman had become an uncontrollable maniac through the use of morphine.

The woman had undergone "frozen sleep" for treatment of a cancerous shoulder.

Hub Chimney Fires To Cost $5 Now

The Boston fire department went on the "cash and carry" basis today with Commissioner Reilly's edict that a $5 fee will be charged henceforth for putting out chimney fires.

Reilly said there were too many chimney fires and that building owners would probably have their flues cleaned more often if they were forced to pay the $5.

PORTIAS JOIN U.S. BAR

57 Hear Warning on Vanity

Three women were numbered among 57 lawyers admitted to practice in federal court today during ceremonies attendant upon opening of the spring term.

The Portias are Mabel Fellows, Murphy of Main st., Worcester; Rose L. Ginsburg of 27 School st., and Ida J. Sifton of 53 State st. Sitting on the bench during the proceedings, opened by a frock-coated United States marshal—J. Henry Goguen—for the first time since Marshal Charles K. Darling presided 35 years ago, were Judges Hugh D. McLellan, George C. Sweeney and Francis J. W. Ford. Instructions to the new federal grand jury were delivered by Judge Ford, while Judge McLellan gave a talk on federal court procedure to the lawyers' admittee to practice in the court.

Warning them against exhibiting vanity because of this honor, Judge McLellan repeated a story a former secretary of the treasury used to tell on himself.

Leslie M. Shaw, former governor of Ohio and newly-appointed Treasury secretary under President Theodore Roosevelt, went to visit his old home town in Vermont, and when he alighted from the train he found the same old cab driver at the station.

"Do you know who I am?" asked the new Treasurer.

"I know who you are; you're Les Shaw," replied the caddy without animation.

"Do you know I've been made Secretary of the Treasury?"

"Yes, I know."

"Do the boys around here know?"

"Yes, they all know."

"What do they say about it?"

"They don't say nothing. They just laugh."

'DENTAL FALL' DUE TO CLUB

BALTIMORE, March 19 (AP)—Today's toothaches really started when prehistoric man stopped biting his enemies and began using a club.

This "Dental Fall of Man" was described today to the American Dental Ass'n in a prepared address by Dr. Leon R. Kramer of Topeka, Kan., director of the mental hygiene division of the Kansas State Board of Health.

"Prehistoric man had large jaws, a large mouth and powerful teeth," Dr. Kramer said. "In his competition for livelihood his teeth and jaws were effective instruments of defense."

But, when the club idea got around, along with stone hatchets and other bone-crushers, prehistoric man put less strain on his teeth, Dr. Kramer continued, and a gradual change occurred "resulting in weaker teeth, less resistant oral tissues and smaller jaw-bones."

Today, man has a "glass jaw"; tooth decay is nearly a 100 per cent disease of civilization.

Threat of Fish Shortage Grows

Threat of a fresh fish shortage here was increased today as three more beam trawlers were tied up pending negotiation of a new contract between owners and fishermen.

The trawlers now total 46 out of a fleet of 53. Approximately 700 men are out of work as a result of the 3-week deadlock on wages and general working conditions. The old contract between the Federated Fishing Boats of New England, representing owners, and the Atlantic Fishermen's Union ran out March 2.

Owners are asking for four additional hours of work per week, making a total of 85 a week. Fishermen counter with a demand that owners pay lumpers and radio operators in full. They now pay one half radio men's pay and full wages of lumpers out of the share of one half the catch.

Influenza Relaxes Its Grip on Britain

Reveal Innocent Boy Held as Bag Snatcher

A strange tangle of friendship and crime and conscience was bared in municipal court today as police belatedly sought exoneration of a North End youth they said they had arrested by mistake as a handbag snatcher.

The officers pleaded in vain to have Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam reverse a previous guilty finding against 19-year-old Alfred Berlandi of Thatcher st., North End, a brother of a member of Mayor Tobin's secretarial staff.

According to police, they have a confession from the real handbag thief and are prepared to bring him to court to plead guilty to the larceny wrongly blamed on young Berlandi.

The "mistaken" arrest of Berlandi occurred when he joined in chasing the handbag snatcher, but abandoned the pursuit on recognizing the culprit as a North End friend, police told Judge Putnam. They said the guilty friend, conscience stricken upon learning of Berlandi's court conviction, came to the Berlandi home, admitted the theft, then repeated his confession to investigating officers.

Judge Putnam pointed out that young Berlandi appealed the guilty finding and is free in $1500 bail. Allowing the present status of the case of remain unchanged will work no added hardship, the judge said.

He declined, therefore, to vacate his original guilty finding.

Police, however, said they would bring the real culprit before Judge Putnam tomorrow.

Young Berlandi was in court today, accompanied by his brother, Charles, who said he is an assistant secretary to Mayor Tobin.

Illness Halts Coster Trial

NEW YORK, March 19 (AP)—The trial of five men, charged with knowingly participating in the schemes of F. Donald Coster to fake $21,000,000 in assets of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was adjourned until tomorrow because Federal Judge Grover M. Moscovitz has a cold.

Judge Moscovitz said he hoped to get rid of the cold by resting for a day.

Those on trial for alleged mail fraud and conspiracy are Horace B. Merwin, president of the Bridgeport, (Ct.) City Trust Company; Rowley W. Phillips, former chairman of R. F. Griggs & Co., investment brokers of Waterbury, Ct.; John H. McGloin, former vice president and comptroller of the wholesale drug corporation, and John O. and Leonard Jenkins, brothers-in-law of Coster, who was president of the firm.

Cooks Call Strike At Thompson's Spas

Many employees of Thompson's Spa, Inc., went on strike today in an attempt to force the company's recognition of the Cooks and Pastry Cooks Union.

The question at issue involves no dispute over wages and hours, but hinges on whether or not Thompson's Spa workers shall have the opportunity to vote, by secret ballot, to determine their collective bargaining agency, according to the company.

Employees affected are all workers exclusive of counter girls, soda fountain workers and cigar stand attendants.

Pickets were assigned to the eight downtown spas of the company, some of the pickets going on the lines as early as 5:30 a. m., and remaining despite the rain that began two hours later.

About 20 pickets were assigned to the spa in Newspaper Row best known of the group of eight. Other pickets patrolled the spas in Temple pl., West st., Tremont st., Boylston st., Haymarket sq., and two in Summer st.

Meanwhile, with stocks already in for the morning trade, business was conducted as usual at these stores for the first meal of the day.

STRIKE IS CALLED

The cooks and pastry cooks, as well as other workers, were necessary, however, for the preparation of the principal meal, at noon, and these were affected by the strike.

According to union officials, 5 o'clock last night was the deadline set for union recognition by the company, and when this was not forthcoming the strike was called.

Many of the workers gathered at union headquarters in Broadway, South End, where Joseph Zetfany was in charge of the strike.

Things came to a "head," it was asserted by John W. Stokes, treasurer of Thompson's Spa, where the company's demand for a secret ballot on the choice of which labor union should act as collective bargaining agency was rejected.

VIEWS OF COMPANY

"The company's relations with its employees," said Treasurer Stokes, "have always been friendly and harmonious."

"During the past two years the company has recognized and now has agreements with two labor unions as the representatives of two groups of its employees."

"A joint council affiliated with the American Federation of Labor now claims to represent a majority of the company's employees and the council recently filed a petition with the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission to establish this claim."

"At a hearing before the commission, the company expressed its willingness to co-operate in having an early election for the purpose of determining whether or not the joint council does represent the majority."

"The joint council refused to have an election."

Coast Guards Hunt Fish Boat

The Coast Guard patrol boat Faunce which landed fisherman rescued from the dragger Providence today was ordered out almost immediately on another search for a fishing boat reported overdue.

Supposedly fishing eight miles off the "Brimack" coast, the boat named the Seven of Us is believed to carry a crew of 5 or 6 men.

Autopsy in Death Of Wealthy Dentist

NEW YORK, March 19 (INS)—The strange death of a wealthy Connecticut dentist sent Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, New York medical examiner, hurrying to Danbury for an autopsy today while police kept their records "open."

Dr. Charles McKevitt, of Ridgefield, Ct., in excellent health, visited his attorneys in New York last Thursday to prepare his income tax. As he emerged from the office he fell. A doctor treated him for a minor injury but later his condition became so serious that a private ambulance carried him to Danbury, where he died.

Census-Taking Banned on Sundays

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—W. L. Austin, census director, promised census-takers today that they could take Sundays off.

He made this public in a letter to the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

2 Women Saved In Revere Blaze

Firemen led two middle-aged Revere women from a flaming cottage today just before the first and second floors crashed to the basement.

Two alarms were sounded for the fire which completely gutted the one and one-half story structure at the top of Winthrop ave. hill in the Beachmont section.

Damage was estimated at $8000. Mrs. Minnie Reisman and Mrs. Agnes Black, the occupants who narrowly escaped, had run back into the building to save clothing.

The fire is believed to have started from an oil explosion in the basement.

No Charity Patients For Corey Hill

Brookline Board of Selectmen voted against a proposal to open Corey Hill Hospital in Summit ave., to charity cases on the grounds the policy of the hospital would make the property untaxable. Behind the proposal was Dr. Albert P. Young, president of the corporation of the hospital.

10 CHAMBERLAIN DEFENDS HIS WAR POLICES

formly of the opinion that "a powerful reinforcement in the air could have broken the Russian onslaught."

"Britain and France hesitated, the enemy acted and Finland was lost," Hore-Belisha said.

RAPS CRITICS IN U. S.
After dealing at length with the Finnish situation and attacking criticism from the United States over failure of Allied aid, Chamberlain discussed the possibilities of peace in Europe.

Amid cheers, he told of the happiness with which he welcomed Welles on the latter's arrival in London.

"When he returned to Italy," Chamberlain said, "Mr. Welles found himself in the presence of a new event—a meeting of two dictators at the Brenner Pass."

"The meeting naturally has given rise to many speculations as to its purpose."

"Some thought it was for the purpose of elaborating new peace proposals. I do not know whether this is true or not."

"For aught I know, these two gentlemen may have spent their time discussing conditions under which an Italian ship was destroyed yesterday by a German mine.

"Whatever may be the outcome of the meeting, we are ready to meet it. We are not likely to be diverted from the purpose for which we entered the war."

Chamberlain said he was confident that while in London Welles was "able to get actual views and sentiments of all sections of our community, and see for himself the unity of purpose with which we are all inspired."

FIGHT FOR PEACE

Then referring to President Roosevelt's definition of moral peace, guaranteeing the security of small nations against aggression, Chamberlain said:

"It is to obtain such a peace that we have taken up arms."

"We intend to fight until it has been secured."

After characterizing the much-vaunted Nazi air raid on Scapa Flow as a "very unimportant affair" in which not a single capital ship was damaged, Chamberlain implied that there might be retaliation for the death of one civilian and injury to several others in the attack.

"Whatever their intentions, they have been," he said in reference to German excuses for civilian sufferings, "responsibility for the consequences must rest with the authors."

The raid, he said, was a "failure."

"The Germans dropped 121 high explosive and 599 incendiary bombs over 100 square miles of land and Scapa Flow," Chamberlain said.

"No capital ships (battleships) suffered any damage whatsoever."

WHEN TO STRIKE?

In answer to critics urging a more vigorous British war policy, Chamberlain said:

"We cannot be hustled into adventures which might appear to us to present little chance of success, with a chance of danger and perhaps disaster."

"The time when it will please us to strike must be decided upon with the most expert advice that we can command."

"In the meantime, the best way we can ensure victory is to preserve unshaken our determination and unity."

"We have consciousness that what we are fighting for is what every right-minded citizen in the world desires—establishment of a durable and moral peace such as that of which the President spoke in the words to which I have alluded."

Chamberlain's charge that Germany had threatened to invade Norway and Sweden was his first official confirmation of this previously voiced allegation.

Asserting that the British-French allies had been prepared to send at least 100,000 men to Finland's aid before the end of April and also to aid Sweden against any German intervention, Chamberlain described the Allies' readiness to enter the northern conflict.

Previously Premier Daladier had told of preparation of an expedition of 50,000 men for Finland.

TROOPS WERE READY

Speaking to a packed and often cheering house, the prime minister said the expedition had been approved by the Allied Supreme War Council on Feb. 5 and was ready to leave at the beginning of March—two months before Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim, Finnish commander, had asked for it to arrive.

Chamberlain said that Mannerheim in mid-January informed the British he did not require men then, as his resources were sufficient to last until the spring thaw.

Making a vigorous defense of the help Britain and France had offered and given Finland, Chamberlain declared:

"We felt we must be ready also to provide a force to come to the assistance of Sweden if she were attacked by Germany."

He declared that Germany had threatened Norway and Sweden with intervention if they gave assent to the passage of a British-French expeditionary force.

PEACE FINNS' TRAGEDY

Chamberlain said the Russian-Finnish peace was "a great tragedy" which had compromised Finland's "independence and integrity."

He declared that suggestions that the Allies had failed in their obligations should come "least of all" from "individuals in countries far away from the seat of war."

In another passage he asserted "perhaps our power to help Finland is not yet at an end."

As soon as Chamberlain sat down after one of the longest war reports he had made, Labor Leader Attlee demanded more drive in the prosecution of the war.

"The initiative must not be left with Hitler," said Attlee. "We cannot have a policy of wait and see."

Attlee demanded a strengthening of the home front and declared:

"The prime minister must in war be ruthless with inefficiency."

Attlee, in the sharpest attack yet made on the government's war policy, declared:

"I want to see a war cabinet that lays down war principles, that makes decisions."

"A policy of sitting quiet would be suicidal," Attlee said. "No one wants the area of this conquest enlarged, but we cannot see German influence extended, concerning a friendly neutrality into enforced co-operation. We have to show skill and initiative to prevent the slipping away of our friends."

OF SUMNER WELLES

Of Sumner Welles Attlee said: "I think he realizes the determination of the people of this country. I think he will know we all want peace and I think he will know too that we want a real peace, a peace of principle."

Attlee asked whether everything possible was being done in regard to food, coal and shipping, and said:

"We want more intense work on supply and a greater utilization of our manpower. There still are 1,400,000 unemployed. We are resolved to carry this thing through successfully, but do not make any mistake as to what we are up against."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, following Attlee, said:

"Everybody is asking what Hitler is going to do, what Mussolini is going to do, what Stalin is going to do. It's about time we asked what Chamberlain is going to do."

The House was so crowded that some members had to sit in the galleries. It was Chamberlain's first war progress statement since March 8, when he told the House of the Moscow peace. He said:

"If the Finns did in the end suffer defeat their stand was not in vain," Chamberlain continued. "They have preserved their honor. They have won the respect of all the world. Their government which fought the war still holds office. Their army is intact. The spirit of their people is unbroken."

"The collapse of Finnish resistance was a profound shock throughout the world. Once again we were compelled to see a small state the victim of that policy of aggression we have taken up arms to resist."

"It was only to be expected that German propaganda would use this event to move responsibility from themselves and throw it upon others. But she (Germany) cannot escape her responsibility."

GERMANY TO BLAME

"Finland would never have been invaded if it had not been for the pacts between the Soviet and Germany. It was only German threats which terrified the Scandinavian countries into withholding help which might perhaps have saved her."

"No one can suggest that this country and France had failed in their obligations to do their utmost to assist Finland. Least of all should such suggestions come from individuals in countries far away from the seat of the war."

Before Chamberlain spoke the British government acknowledged it was unable to prevent shipments of oil through the Black Sea to Germany.

Foreign envoys early filled the diplomatic gallery to hear Prime Minister Chamberlain.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky sat next to each other.

Mussolini Delays Hitler's Smash at Allied West Front

By PERCY WINNER

ROME, March 19 (INS)—Through his authorized press spokesman, Premier Mussolini today disclaimed the role of "permanent peace emissary" in Europe.

At the same time, an unimpeachable authority informed this correspondent that in his conference with Adolf Hitler at the Brenner Pass yesterday, Il Duce averted the possibility of an immediate Nazi offensive on the western front. Mussolini's renunciation of a "permanent" mediation role was made known by Virginio Gayda, editor of the Giornale d'Italia, whose articles invariably reflect the mind of Mussolini.

STRENGTHENS AXIS

Gayda's editorial emphasized that yesterday's conference had strengthened the Rome-Berlin axis.

"Recent developments in the war have produced significant revelations which appear to threaten the interests and position of Italy," Gayda wrote.

"They also confirm the usefulness of Italo-German co-operation and solidarity of the axis, which was newly reinforced at the Brenner Pass, based upon construction of a juster Europe, truly founded on parity rights."

"It is absurd and grotesque," Gayda wrote, "to attribute to Il Duce the permanent role of peace emissary, mediator of the European conflict or journeyman among the capitals of Europe in the cause of pacification."

SEES LONG, BITTER WAR

"No government has yet asked for such mediation."

"The war promises to be long, arduous and complex, full of sudden and unforeseen developments."

By dissuading Hitler from an immediate offensive, Mussolini succeeded in the main object of his visit to the Brenner Pass, a highly-placed informant told International News Service.

If, however, Great Britain and France take the initiative and attempt to batter down the defenses of the West Wall, strong Italian action in behalf of Germany may be anticipated, he said.

KEEPS BALKANS QUIET

In addition to persuading Hitler against the advisability of an offensive while peace is still possible, Mussolini agreed on Italy's behalf to take all possible measures to prevent extension of war into the Balkans and Near East.

In this connection, authoritative diplomatic circles re-emphasized that yesterday's conference had an important bearing on future Italo-Russian relations. Possibility of a joint German-Russian-Italian declaration guaranteeing peace in those areas was foreseen.

DENIAL BY VATICAN

The influential Rome Telegraph said Italy has no desire or intention to alter her present attitude. The conference resulted mainly from Hitler's desire to examine the general situation with his axis partner, Telegraph said.

Meanwhile, high Italian officials and the Vatican categorically and vigorously denied reports that the Holy See had passed along an 11 point peace plan under which Hitler allegedly would agree to call off hostilities.

Germans Sink 9 Ships in Week

LONDON, March 19 (AP)—The Admiralty announced today that nine British and neutral ships were lost by enemy action in the week ended Sunday at midnight. Tonnage totaled 23,922.

Most of the casualties were listed as due to "illegal" mines, with only four ships sunk by German submarines since Feb. 21.

The opinion was expressed that submarines which have escaped destruction have been recalled temporarily.

The week's losses were described as three British ships, totalling 3419 tons; two French, 3172 tons, and four neutrals, 15,321 tons, none in convoy.

Authoritative naval sources declined to amplify the admiralty's previous statement that one British battleship was slightly damaged by a bomb in Saturday's air raid at Scapa Flow, pending Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in Commons today.

Nazis, Vatican Seek New Pact

VATICAN CITY, March 19 (AP)—Germany and the Vatican are negotiating an arrangement to safeguard the interests of Catholics in territories annexed by Germany, a reliable Vatican source said today. The informant said the negotiations were being conducted in Berlin by Monsignor Cesare Orsenigo, Papal Nuncio to the German government.

Pope Pius XII was believed to have discussed the matter with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop when he was received in audience here March 11. The conversations are expected to result in a "modus vivendi," or temporary working agreement, regulating freedom of worship, religious teaching in schools, the status of ecclesiastical seminaries and theological faculties in universities, and state financial support of parochial institutions.

ALLIES GET READY FOR HITLER DRIVE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 19—A flood of rumors again engulfed Paris today over outcome of the Hitler-Mussolini conference at the Brenner Pass.

One said that Hitler bluntly told Il Duce that he was preparing to smash Britain and France without delay if peace could not be arranged. Another said he had asked Mussolini to "immobilize" the Alps, but that Il Duce had refused.

ALLIES READY, UNAFRAID

The reports were all given the usual consideration, but there is serious reason to doubt them.

"Well-informed circles advised skepticism regarding the possibility that Hitler might suddenly abandon his waiting game, particularly in view of his recent 'moral victory' in Finland and the admitted discontent in allied political circles. Furthermore, while it might be an exaggeration to say that Britain and France would welcome a German offensive, at least they are more than prepared for it and certainly not afraid of it.

Best informed diplomatic circles in Paris believed that the campaign was concerned chiefly with an Italo-German agreement to divide spheres of influence in the Balkans.

DALADIER FACES FIGHT

Premier Daladier's government will face a new barrage of criticism over its failure to go to Finland aid in time when the Chamber of Deputies meets in secret session this afternoon. Reports were current there would be some 210 abstentions, indicating the extent of dissatisfaction.

In an effort to overcome it, Daladier is expected to submit for parliamentary approval his new "streamlined" war cabinet consisting of only 10 or 12 major port folios.

The Paris-Soir insisted that peace proposals were drafted at the Hitler-Mussolini conference.

The paper said the proposals, "more generous than previous German demands," would be handed to Undersecretary of State Summer Welles in Rome today.

The victory will not be a tactical rather than military triumph at first, a spokesman indicated, reiterating Germany's belief that in his conference with Hitler yesterday Mussolini agreed to build the foundations of a new order in Europe with Berlin, Rome and Moscow as cornerstones.

German officials clearly indicated that within the next few days they expect to see Italy draw closer to the Soviet Union as the major step in a campaign to neutralize the Balkans and immobilize any Anglo-French offensive against Germany in that area.

DENY PEACE OFFERS

Speculation and reports of peace offers in past months by the Reich have finding various capitals of Europe were branded as British as completely unfounded.

"The world seems unable to grasp the fact," an authorized spokesman said, "that the Fuehrer is determined once and for all to end the war victoriously and put a stop to threats against Germany's living rights by plutocratic democracies."

The whole atmosphere in Berlin at the time of Hitler's return indicated confidence that Italian-German co-operation has been strengthened to an unprecedented degree. It is accepted in Berlin as fact that Mussolini agreed to work with Germany to forestall an allied offensive in the Balkans or Near East that if Italy ever decides to enter the war it will be on Germany's side and that Rome will support Moscow as a partner in a permanent agreement to achieve Hitler's aims.

CANT SEE RED AXIS

Whether or not Easter week will witness a demonstration of a tacit working agreement among Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, it would be 100 per cent false and misleading to interpret such a development as extension of the Rome-Berlin axis to Moscow.

Such a step would be impossible since the core of the axis in the German viewpoint is deep-seated in fundamental and similar Italo-German dialogues, with the two capitals knit together through two years of active collaboration.

There is nothing, however, in present establishment of a three-cornered working basis resembling in content or procedure by a common desire to smash the western democracies and displace them from their thrones, but merely a common attitude.

PLAN QUICK THRUST

This informal quotation said Hitler Germany in a position where she is able and determined to challenge the Allies for a fatal decision in a narrow western front only 200 miles in length.

The Reich is fortified by the knowledge a spokesman said, that Italy, while now a silent partner, is ready to take a military plunge in Germany's behalf when and if circumstances dictate.

Welles Has Last Talk With Ciano

ROME, March 19 (AP)—Sumner Welles had a farewell luncheon today with Foreign Minister Count Ciano, and diplomats believed it possible that Ciano gave the American an idea of what occurred in the Brenner Pass meeting of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini yesterday.

They dined informally at Rome's Golf Club with United States Ambassador William Phillips, Prince Matantonio Colonna, brother of Prince Asenjo Colonna, an ambassador to Washington; Prince Di Drago, the Marquis Lanza; and the Marquis D'Adda. The day passed with no indication of a further meeting between Welles and Benito Mussolini. Welles says on the Corbis di Savoia tomorrow to report to President Roosevelt.

Welles and Ciano had a long talk together after the luncheon. Later at a press conference Welles disclosed that he had a talk during his Rome stay with Frederick P. Hibbard, first secretary of the United States legation in Rome, who gave him the Balkan background.

You Can Make A Big Saving By Dyeing Your Own Hair

It is now so easy and economical to dye your own hair that anyone with graying locks need hesitate no longer because of the expense involved or fear of not getting a satisfactory job. The Barbo recipe given below has enabled thousands to get a real professional-looking job at a fraction of the usual expense.

Here is the recipe: Get from your druggist one-fourth ounce glycerine, one ounce bay rum and one box Barbo Compound. Mix these in a half pint of water, or your druggist

The dead also included two policemen. Ten of the officers also were wounded, among them three police chiefs.

The bloody clash resulted when a large group of young men, members of a pseudo-political youth movement, attempted to hold a procession despite a government order banning demonstrations or military marches until April 1.

Police at first tried to break up the parade without the use of guns, but finally opened fire with bullets directed straight at the demonstrators.

Immediately after the battle city police and military reinforcements began a comprehensive patrol of Lahore.

The government ban against such processions was said to have resulted from two major factors:

- 1 Growing political unrest in India, due primarily to nation-wide agitation for self-rule sponsored by the Indian National Congress, headed by the inspired leadership of Mohandas K. Gandhi. In this connection India's two major political groups, the Congress and the Muslim League, have disagreed emphatically.
- 2 The rapid formation in many Indian provinces of so-called youth groups, which, under the outward labels of "social or sporting clubs," have adopted semi-military uniforms and until March 1 insisted upon carrying cane-like weapons.

Gandhi Foe Sees India Civil War

RAMGARH, India, March 19 (AP)—Possibility of civil war in India in event of a compromise between the Gandhi-controlled all-India Nationalist Congress party and "imperial Britain" was advanced today by Subhas Chandra Bose, former Congress president, who has called a rump session of leftwing dissenters. Bose addressed followers as president of "the anti-compromise congress," and denounced Mohandas K. Gandhi and "the right-wing high command" as sidetracking the Indian independence issue. Gandhi adherents yesterday defied motions to expedite the demand for independence over the veteran leader's insistence that native Indians must be disciplined to refrain from violence before a civil disobedience campaign is started.

Extra Holiday Being Put in New Calendar

A proposal that would include a couple of world-wide holidays is "in the lead for nomination" among scientists working toward a revision of the present calendar, a Boston astronomer said today.

But, only one would come yearly—Year's End Day.

The other one—"Leap Year Day"—would come only in leap years. Committees in virtually every country, said Dr. Loring E. Andrews, are considering, among others, a plan whereby each quarter of the year would look exactly like every other quarter—with each being made up of a month of 31 days, and two months of 30 days each.

WOULD BOOT RHYMES

"There is a demand," said Andrews, former executive secretary of Harvard Observatory, "for a revision of the calendar to make it more useful, more systematic, so you won't always have to be reciting rhymes to decide how many days a certain month has, or be having to refer to a printed calendar to see the day on which a month begins and ends."

Under the plan, a new calendar would go into effect in a year that starts with Jan. 1 as a Sunday. Then, with the year divided into quarters each totaling 91 days, or exactly 13 weeks, each quarter would start on a Sunday, and end on a Saturday.

Now-about these holidays: "The total of four quarters of 91 days would be 364 days," explained Andrews. "To bring up the total to 365 days for the ordinary year, there would be a 'Year's End Day' inserted between Dec. 30 and Jan. 1. And it would be a holiday, probably extremely useful to business whose fiscal year ends with the calendar year."

THEN LEAP YEAR

Every fourth year, subject to the rules of Pope Gregory XIII eliminating certain century years, would be leap year, and "Leap Year Day" would be inserted in the calendar between June 30 and July 1.

"Such a calendar revision," the astronomer said, "while acceptable to business men, runs up against ecclesiastical difficulties concerned with church holidays and feasts. Those in charge of reform would fix the date of religious and secular holidays, and committees are trying to work out these difficulties."

"Sometime in the future—no one knows when—you may find an international agreement signed, sealed and delivered, when a new form of the calendar will take effect."—(A.P.)

SEEKS U. S. FUNDS FOR CAMPAIGNS

WASHINGTON, March 19 (AP)—Senator Hatch (D.) of New Mexico jubilant over Senate approval of his bill extending the present anti-politics law, recommended today that the Federal government finance political campaigns.

Such an innovation in the American political system, Hatch said, probably would cost less than the present method of raising party funds by individual contributions.

"It's not a new thought," he added "in a 1907 message to Congress, President Theodore Roosevelt advocated such legislation. Several states have considered the idea."

The fate of the Hatch anti-politics bill, meanwhile, passed over to the House, where action this session appeared highly doubtful. Passed 58 to 28 by the Senate yesterday, the measure would subject some 500,000 state employees paid partly from federal funds to the restrictions against political activity which now apply to federal workers.

Democratic Leader Barkley and Senator Hatch were pleased that a majority of Democratic senators voted for the bill. It had produced a sharp split in the party ranks, in contrast with united support it received from the Republicans.

No Republicans voted against it yesterday. Signs of stiff House opposition, however, materialized rapidly. Rep. Celler (D.) of New York and Weaver (D.) of North Carolina, two members of the judiciary committee, declared against it. Speaker Bankhead also announced his disapproval. Democratic leader Rayburn has been noncommittal.

Republican leader Martin said it would be difficult to get the legislation to the floor this session because the rules committee might refuse it the right-of-way even if the judiciary committee recommended its enactment. He emphasized that he favored the bill, however.

victory," the loyal wife and mother asserted emphatically.

While efforts to furnish their bail were being made, Connolly and Conway were both locked up, temporarily, in the same cell in Charles at jail.

They were assigned to cell 23. In the north wing, Connolly made a dramatic, but vain, plea for lower bail after he heard the jury verdict.

Judge George F. Leary ordered each defendant held for sentence on April 8.

In an indictment charging eight counts of accepting presents and rewards, Connolly was found not guilty.

Conway, described by Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan as Connolly's "legman," was found guilty in 11 of 13 counts of accepting bribes to the former county official.

From benches and corridors where they had been sleeping, a large crowd of spectators hurried to the courtroom when the jury filed in at 5:35 o'clock this morning.

Among those who kept the all-night vigil were the wives of the jurors, waiting to be reunited to their husbands after two weeks. Connolly's wife had returned home to her eight children at midnight. Today's verdict came in the 14th day of the trial.

The courtroom was tensely silent as Clerk Martin Lee asked Francis T. Russell, foreman of the jury, what the group's findings were in the conspiracy charge against Connolly and Conway.

Both defendants bowed, crestfallen, when Russell replied:

"Guilty."

In detail, Clerk Lee questioned the jury foreman concerning the total of 34 counts. As Judge Leary prepared to answer, Asst. Dist. Atty. Sullivan's motion concerning the amount of bail, Connolly requested a chance to speak.

"I have very little in worldly goods but am rich in gifts from God," Connolly said, his voice faltering.

PLEA FAILS

"If you accept this motion for high bail, you will take from my little brood the head of the family. I have opposed any delay in this trial, I have not left the city."

"All I ask is that I not be deprived of associations with my family—my youngest child is two, my oldest is 19. I ask from the bottom of my heart as a decent husband and loving father that you permit my present bail to stand."

In reply, Judge Leary declared the conviction in 12 counts charging felonies necessitated an increase in bail from $5000 to $10,000.

The two indictments classified as charging felonies included 12 counts of requesting and receiving gifts and rewards totaling $2900. Connolly was found not guilty of accepting $1350 in presents.

Conway faced only charges involving misdemeanors, since one indictment against him charging a felony was dismissed yesterday. Before the case went to the jury, the number of counts against Conway was reduced from 36 to 20.

Judge Leary praised the jury of merchants, mechanics, clerks, a butcher, baker and WPA worker for its sacrifices in being locked up nearly two weeks. He released eight men from further service.

During the trial, 27 government witnesses testified for the government and 45 persons took the stand for the defense.

Assistant Frederick T. Doyle directed the prosecution with Sullivan. Connolly's defense was handled by Abner R. Sisson, Lawrence McHugh and William Lee. Attorney Herbert F. Callahan was Conway's counsel.

The case was given to the jury at 7:25 p. m. after arguments in which Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan assailed Connolly as "a Caesar who sold jobs in the temple of justice." Conway was defended as the victim of a "deal" by Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, and Connolly was pictured as a loyal friend to ingrates by his counsel, Atty. Abner F. Sisson.

"This has been a smelly case, a nauseating and revolting case, because it involved the sale of jobs by a high public official and his criminal allies," said Sullivan in summing up.

"That is the issue: jobs for sale. And where were they sold? In the temple of justice by Connolly and Conway."

JUDGE EXPLAINS POINTS

Judge Leary advised the jury that to establish conspiracy, direct relationship and concerted action between the defendants must be shown.

"You must then decide, beyond a reasonable doubt, if in making the alleged collusions Conway had been authorized by Connolly to act as his agent," he said.

The judge began his charge at 5:30 p. m. and finished it at 6:10 p. m. At the request of counsel for both sides he explained and elaborated on certain instructions given to the jury and at 7:25 p. m. the session was closed, except for the jury's action. The jurors, however, went out to dinner and did not return until 8:55. Then they began their task of attempting to reach an agreement.

MANY OBJECTIONS

Atty. Sullivan made the summation for Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, who after prosecuting the case became ill and could not finish it. Sullivan was frequently interrupted by objections from both of defense Counsel Callahan and Sisson.

"It is not pleasant for a district attorney in the prosecution of a case to have 12 jurors locked up and kept from their families, but the interest of justice in such a heinous case made it necessary," Sullivan said. "The people of the county and of the Commonwealth are watching you."

Atty. Callahan objected and Judge Leary cautioned Sullivan against using the word, "watching."

"There is nothing difficult about this case," said the assistant district attorney. "It is clear and simple case. And on whom did they prey? On defenseless women."

"Didn't Connolly say on March 16, 1939, that he was Caesar Augustus?"

gustus? Didn't he charge he was being crucified because the scribes and pharisees hadn't been allowed to cut in? Didn't he prey on defenseless women, some of whom were the sole support of widows?"

OBJECTION RULED

There was an immediate objection at this point, but Sullivan declared it was "in the record," and was permitted to proceed.

"Didn't Connolly boast there was no civil service and say, 'I can fire and hire you at will'?" he asked. "Didn't he say to old employees, 'You're too old to get jobs in private industry if I discharge you'? Didn't he say to younger employees like Noonan, 'You wouldn't be worth 20 bucks in an outside job'?"

"Didn't he make the claim that he, Caesar Connolly, was king, and they, his employees, were his slaves? Don't we find McCarthy, the handyman, summoned by Connolly and told to cut out the meetings and go out and get the dough?"

"The whole defense of Conway is based on the primary week of 1936. Conway is broke. Connolly is broke. They need money."

"Get this gentlemen: They are bosom pals. Conway goes out and borrows $1200 from a horse trader—no withdrawal—no note—and he doesn't tell Connolly about it until two and a half years later when he confessed on a bench of historic Boston Common on the evening of the day the Bar Ass'n filed a petition for Connolly's removal."

"Gentlemen, do they think you are morons?"

"LINKS" DEFENDANTS

"Conway doesn't say a word to Connolly, yet he is with him every day."

"He gets $450 from Dan Coakley—who is a character witness. Need I say any more?"

"Connolly said he resigned to save Dist. Atty. Foley and Atty. Gen. Dever from being publicly slandered. Did you ever hear such a cowardly and despicable lie? How is Dever mixed up in this dirty mess? I can give reason for using the name of Foley. He is the prosecuting officer."

"But there was no excuse for dragging in the name of Dever. Connolly ran away. He ran away from the woman whom he had victimized. He did not have the guts to face his accusers. He quit news of Innocence? Connolly was an ingrate to do what he did."

Atty. Callahan in his argument for Conway, charged a "deal" by the government to obtain testimony of Connolly office employees that they had to pay to keep their jobs. In reality, he argued, the Connolly workers voluntarily contributed to a Connolly campaign deficit which

'Spite' Slayer Of Baby Jailed, 13 Fined $6000

MEDIA, Pa., March 19 (AP) —

William J. Larkin, 23, a suspended worker, was committed to voluntary manslaughter today and sentenced to six to 12 years' imprisonment for strangling his 20-month-old son.

He also was fined $6000 and prosecution costs. The sentence was the limit allowed under the law.

Police had quoted Larkin as saying he killed his son Feb. 23 to "spite" his estranged wife and prevent her from taking the child away.

Judge Albert Dalton M. Dill was so dissatisfied with the verdict that he turned to the jury and said:

"I don't know what we're going to do with a verdict like this when the defendant confesses a first degree murder. God save the Commonwealth if all juries are like you. I don't see how a jury can render a verdict like this when a child's life has been snuffed out by the father who should have protected it."

Then he told Larkin:

"You are the most miserable creature that has ever appeared before me. You are not worthy of being called a human being. You killed the child because you had a quarrel with your wife—a crime without any justification—just a brutal act."

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—From all accounts Darryl Zanuck has literally transferred his studio to Sun Valley. He tells me Aveill Harriman has built a special projection and cutting room for him. Well, Harriman can afford it with half the 20th Century-Fox studio making the trip there for Zanuck conferences.

'Ridin' High' Hit At the Howard

The Old Howard's current burlesque revue, "Ridin' High," with the dynamic Georgia Sothen and the comic Billy Foster costarred, is finding much favor with audiences. It is proving one of this burlesque house's most popular entertainments of the season.
In addition to the showing of the recent Armstrong-Garcia fight pictures, "Fifth Avenue Girl," with Ginger Rogers, and "Full Confession," co-starring Victor McLaglen and Sally Eilers, feature the film bill.

Laurel, Hardy Go to Oxford

Hal Roach's "A Chump At Oxford," which re-unites the Laurel-Hardy comedy combination, opens a week's engagement on Trans-Lux screen starting tomorrow.
The comedians are assisted by a supporting cast including Forrester Harvey, Wilfred Lucas, Forbes Murray, Frank Baker and Eddie Borden.

On the same program, Trans-Lux will present, "Ela Lugosi in 'The Human Monster,' the horror film adapted from Edgar Wallace's famous story, 'Dark Eyes of London.' Others in the cast are Hugh Williams, Greta Gyst, Edmon Ryan and Wilfred Walter.

'ROAD TO SINGAPORE' OPENS ON MET SCREEN THURSDAY

EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1945

Anne Gwynne as she does NOT appear in "Black Friday," Universal's new horror picture co-starring Boris Karloff, Bela Lugosi and Anne Nagel, which comes to the RKO Boston screen on Thursday. Here the trim lassie from Texas shows how she keeps that lovely figure.

Bob Hope Tells Secret of Gags

If you can make up funny stuff about mother-in-law associations or a cold snap in Florida, and make people laugh at you, then you were born with the "gift of gags." Like Bob Hope—and maybe you can get yourself a job on the air selling tooth paste or soup, but the chances are you would end up in the soup until you took it all very seriously.

At least Bob, who has a starring role with Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour in "Road to Singapore" which Paramount offers at the Metropolitan Theater, Thursday, thinks so, and with his Crossley rating he's well worth your attention. Bob has taken gags for his life work, and he loves them, but he takes it all very seriously. He is so acrobatic about it that he has to laugh at himself, for he is always watching other members of the cast for ideas. That's why he enjoyed working in this picture.

His years with gags have taught Bob a lot.

"I have found," he says, "that the two best ways to make anybody happy are gross exaggeration and flattering the intelligence of the audience."

The first is somewhat commonplace. Bob favors the second. His method is to take a news item and start building around it. There was that one about the President changing the date of Thanksgiving and Bob's butcher not having any turkeys because "they were all in Washington picketing the White House."

Paired with Paramount's new musical adventure in the South Seas will be "Women Without Names," with Ellen Drew, Robert Paige and Judith Barrett.

Dorothy Lamour goes right on wearing one in her latest picture, "Road to Singapore," due on the Metropolitan screen Thursday. She even appears to have sold co-stars Bob Hope and Bing Crosby on the idea of switching to them. What's so wrong about that? Plenty, and you'll agree when you see the boys.

IF YOU SEE a patrolman opening a big book, hastily turning the pages and jotting down something on note-paper, don't be alarmed. It probably isn't the registration number of your automobile. More likely it is some word that would ordinarily be met in a Shakespearean play or a Harvard senior's final "exam."

Undeterred by the experience of a recent test, wherein many candidates for Police Department appointments defined a "marina" as the wife of a Marine and thus contradicted Noah Webster who said it was a "dock," Massachusetts Civil Service authorities are using a provoking number of unfamiliar nouns, adjectives and verbs in questions patrolmen are required to answer before they can become sergeants, lieutenants or captains.

OFFICER MELANSON
Taking Civil Service Test

Among other questions appeared this:

"If you were a sergeant at a PROTRACTED fire, what would you do?"

Needless to say, many a man, not excepting those who confused "protracted" with "short-circuit" and "arson," went down to defeat.

For this reason, ambitious men who wish to rise from the ranks into the better Police Department positions are obliged, like the above-mentioned officer, to thumb dictionary pages and explore the mysteries of the English language.

Of course there will always be some doubt whether a "cop" with the vocabulary of an Oxford don is a more efficient "limb of the law" than one distinguished chiefly for size and brawn.

But with thousands taking examinations each year, Civil Service officials have to find some way to eliminate the vast majority. To them, apparently, jaw-breaking words and trick questions seem the most effective means.

One cannot help wondering what the blacksmith in Longfellow's famous poem would do were it possible for him to come back and compete for a place in a Massachusetts police department.

With his "large and sinewy hands" he might stand under "a spreading chestnut tree," but if Civil Service had anything to do with it, he probably wouldn't stand long.

FROM MINNESOTA

comes an interesting story. Last Fall, when the great university of that State published two editions of its daily newspaper simultaneously for a fortnight, one standard size and one tabloid, the editor was almost the only member of his staff who liked the tabloid.

But, when the student body was asked to make a choice between the two formats, the young men and women voted 4231 to 2941 to have a tabloid.

The result is that the University of Minnesota's 40th birthday anniversary issue appears in tabloid form.

Young America wants the news at a glance, truthfully, accurately and in a readily understandable medium.

The hard-hitting, fact-acting, thoroughly up-to-date tabloid is journalism's answer to that want.

A similar situation prevails in New England. The Record-American, these six States' sole daily tabloid, has not only New England's youthful audience, but New England's largest audience.

SPRING IS HERE, or almost here. The happy season of returning birds, sprouting vegetation and budding trees arrives tomorrow, precisely at 1:24 p. m.

March came in like a lamb and it appears to be going out in the same gentle manner. Anyway, we are keeping our fingers crossed and hoping for the best.

But, come what may, we are optimistic. No matter how lion-like March's exit may be, life in these parts will continue more or less undisturbed.

Here, poets can still write, "In the Spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love."

Elsewhere, especially in war-torn Europe, youthful fancies have little time for Cupid and his bow and arrow. A glib warrior totting a hand grenade seems more in keeping with bombing planes and poison gas.

Getting Well

PERHAPS the happiest days of all ... the days we'd like most to recall ... are those when, after a long spell ... of illness we were getting well.

Gone were the phantoms which, it seems ... haunted us in our fevered dreams ... We basked in golden sunshine, and ... so drowsily, with book in hand ... a pleasant lassitude would creep ... upon us as we fell asleep.

Kind friends beguiled the passing hours ... bringing us gifts of fruits and flowers ... As in a world of dreams, the day ... would indolently drift away.

IN 1900 NONE but very wealthy women could afford silk stockings. Only 12,572 pairs of such stockings were sold that year. Rest of females wore cotton stockings. Yet a sigher for the past refers to "1900—the age of glamour, glitter and gusto." Why in 1900 only eight thousand Americans owned automobiles. And what automobiles! They were a triple threat to stop, fall apart or blow up ... "How about some inside stuff on celebrities?" asks a Baltimore client. All I know right now, sir, is that George Raft puts Worcestershire sauce on waffles and hot cakes; Joan Crawford is secretly addicted to reading etiquette books; Red Pollard, the jockey, wears flannel nightshirts; Dorothy Lamour is writing an autobiography titled "A Song for a Sarong"; Mr. and Mrs. Joe DiMaggio quarreled because Mrs. Joe frankly stated she didn't like the smell of the stuff Joe put on his hair.

POPULATION of Glasgow, Scotland, is 1,100,000 and in the city's banks are 600,000 savings accounts ... Three hundred elderly gentlemen who meet daily on a pier at Long Beach, Cal., to discuss the questions of the day call themselves "The Spit and Argue Club" ... This department is still very much in accord with slogan "billions for defense but not one boy for Europe" ...

Bing Crosby's charming secretary says, "Mr. Crosby is not a crooner; he's a baritone." Bing has reduced 35 pounds in two months and now looks like a cross between Hamlet's father's ghost and an exclamation point ... George Givot, now and then comic actor, recently advised all his bachelor friends to marry orphans.

MAN PASSING SAYS: "I never saw a red-haired man I would give more than two bits for." I resent that. My father was red-haired. And how about "Red" Grange, "Red" Killifer,

"Red" Doolin, "Kuby Bob" Fitzsimmons, "Red" Pollard and Sinclair Lewis? ... In the country, within 30 minutes' drive or ride to the city, is where I like to live. If I live in the city I like to live right downtown within walking distance of the office ... If I am not given corn beef and cabbage once a week I get surly ... I have been sewed up for injury three times and always in the same spot. I was hit on the upper lip with a rock when a kid. I was kicked there when playing football and cut there when in a taxi accident in Paris last summer.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 19—Practically all of last Friday was spent on the train between Chicago and Hamilton, Ohio. There were no signs of spring, but much land outside of Chicago, just as on the trip from Kokomo, Ind., looked like fertile and prosperous farm land. There was little time in Hamilton for anything but the lecture, and after it was over we drove into Cincinnati in order to leave early Saturday morning for Terre Haute, Ind.

In Terre Haute I spoke for the Teachers' State College in the early afternoon and then Miss Thompson and I parted.

I ALWAYS enjoy speaking at any institution where they train young people, but particularly where teachers are being given the start on an education which must continue all their lives. No real teacher can ever stop learning. The only way that one can inspire youth is to keep on being enthusiastic and eager to learn also. That can only be done if one touches new subjects constantly and opens new windows of the mind and heart that give one a zest for living and keep one eternally young.

In the February issue of Parents' Magazine there was a symposium in which a number of distinguished men told what kind of men they hoped their sons would be. Each man, I imagine, reflected his own image in his answer, and some of the things which were said struck a responsive chord in me.

Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, ended with these words: "I hope each of my four sons may be a better man than I am and that their generation may be a better one than mine."

Such modesty was probably made of his boys just what he wishes them to be, and I think every one of us, fathers and mothers, would echo that same wish. If only our children can begin a little ahead of our own starting point we will feel that our experience has counted for something.

DONALD C. PEATTIE, naturalist, and author, in the same symposium, expressed beautifully something which I have often wanted to say: "May my sons' religion be a reverence for life. May they judge by all things that come to them. May they never fail to feel that gratitude for being alive which is indestructible happiness. May they worship, as the manifest glory of this religion, the natural beauty of the world, and see it never through eyes dimmed by materialism. So, true to an imperishable reality, may they become strong men for any fight, but sure of what they fight for."

I am back in Washington and, for the first time in some years, at home on our wedding anniversary. There is no special celebration, for we are rather an ancient married couple.

GLAMOR GIRLS PICK
JOHN GARFIELD

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 19—The Stork Club's representative telephoned John Garfield and asked whether he'd mind coming to lunch there with 15 of the best-known models . . . "But why me?" Garfield wondered . . . "Well, they had a poll—to decide the one man they'd prefer to have lunch with them—and you were first choice. Franchot Tone was second" . . . "I won't do it," Garfield declared. "I don't want to meet 15 crazy girls" . . . "But they're not crazy," Garfield was assured, "They're quite intelligent" . . . "They must be crazy," Garfield replied, "if they prefer me to Tone."

LIONEL STANDER flew to Hollywood for two jobs—one with United Artists and another in the Coast company of "Margin For Error" . . . Magda Taglialatini received a cable from Daladier, asking if he could use her villa at Vaucluse, near Versailles, for week-end rests. She cabled her consent . . . Frank Dudley's "King Cobra" will be published on April 12. It's an exciting expose of the Ku Klux Klan and involves the Professional Joiner . . . Louis Bromfield will leave for New Orleans to get background material for his new novel. Then he'll go to Hollywood to discuss a new picture with Charles Laughton.

A FEW DAYS before the opening of "The Burning Deck," the show which flopped recently, CHARLES LAUGHTON Gregory Gaye, who played a Country Gentleman in that show, phoned his friend, Moss Hart . . . Gaye had no great faith in the show's success and didn't want to buy clothes for what proved to be a short run—and so he asked Hart for permission to borrow some of the clothes Moss wears at his Bucks County estate . . . "Of course," Moss agreed. "You go right out there and take your pick. Take whatever you like" . . . Hart attended the premiere, anxious to see his country clothes displayed on a Broadway stage . . . Gaye made his entrance—but not with Moss' clothes. He had gone out to Hart's farm, inspected Moss' wardrobe and didn't like any of the clothes . . . But Moss recognized the elegant suit Gaye was wearing on stage. It belonged to Charles—Hart's butler.

JAMES ROOSEVELT, who is now producing a film version of "The Bat" had a story conference with his writers, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Perelman . . . Roosevelt read the completed pages and registered a complaint . . . "You're sticking too closely to the script," he told them, and added: "Not that I didn't ask you to stick to it."

THE NEW YORK JOURNALS AND BOSTON papers alike seized on the home-coming of young John F. Hasey of Bridgewater as first-class copy . . . Young Hasey's story had an authentic background of the Finnish-Russo front . . . The lad was wounded, and docked in New York with an arm in a sling . . . Nearly as interesting, but entirely neglected by Gotham papers and news services, was the arrival the same day of a girl described as "gorgeous," and who will be a Bostonian, they say, by adoption.

MISS IRENE CHERKASSKY, and although she sighted the New York skyline at about the same hour, was on another boat . . . She has been playing in motion pictures for "Suomi Filmi," and came to America to continue a promising career . . . Miss Cherkassky had made her plans for America, we are told, last summer . . . But the war intervened and the girl would not leave her country until the cause was lost.

WHAT MAKES MISS CHERKASSKY an extremely interesting subject for Boston feature stories is (1) that she did war duty in the vicinity of the Mannerheim Line, (2) her father is Paul Cherkassky, a first violinist in the Boston Symphony Orchestra . . . Boston music-lovers know Mr. Cherkassky favorably, and he has had real recognition by being chosen occasionally to be guest conductor of the Pops and the Esplanade concert . . . Papa Cherkassky can furnish further particulars, perhaps, of his daughter.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Bunny Berigan is the biggest individual hit of the season among musicians who have played the Paramount, N. Y., the theater which features "name bands" with its pictures . . . Bunny had to return to the ranks as a trumpet-toter (for Tom Dorsey) to get the accolades he missed as a maestro . . . Taking the place held recently by Mr. Berigan on the podium of the Hotel Brunswick's Marionette Room will be a Dorchester boy, Al Donahue.

AL WILL MOVE to the hotel New Yorker after an eight-day stay in his hometown . . . Phil Erito, the young male vocalist with the Donahues, is not a stranger to these parts . . . When "Repeal" was a novelty, in 1933, and the Hotel Touraine distributed entertainment with its viands, an appealing young man named Hueton Ray was leading a band at the Touraine . . . Mr. Erito was also present as the vocalist . . . He was not quite 16 then, and quite a fuss could have been made about his age . . . But all parties to the secret kept silent.

THE GAUNTLET IS hereby flung across the faces—and they should be red—of the Messrs. Redstone and Walters, operators, respectively, of the Mayfair and the Latin Quarter . . . The gauntlet-pitcher is Robert Michaels, who runs a place he calls "The Beachcomber" in Huntington Ave. . . . According to Mr. Michaels he

BARBARA STANWYCK
GETS FILM PLUM

By Louella O. Parsons

Barbara Stanwyck

HOLLYWOOD, March 19—Frank Capra has selected the heroine in "The Life of John Doe," and a hundred hopefuls will have to stop wishing. Barbara Stanwyck carries off the plum, and Frank's first for Warners is beginning to be well set as far as cast is concerned, for Samuel Goldwyn finally loaned Gary Cooper for the Capra picture.

A well-known director was sitting in a local cafe the other night when Capra walked in. "There," said the other director, "goes the 10th best director in Hollywood." That's the way he's regarded, so you can see this is really a break for both Barbara and Gary.

Barbara turned down pictures galore until this one came along. The character she plays is called "Miss Average Woman."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Fran English of George White's Scandals and Ben Blue will not marry. They have said adieu to romance at the request of her mother: Binnie Barnes announced in Keno she would return there and marry Frankovitch; Margot Stevenson and Garson Kanin night clubbing; Frances Farmer and Norman Macasady spent Sunday gazing at the sea waves at Laguna Beach; stopped in at the Casey Robinsons for cocktails Sunday just in time to see Sally Eilers, Gracie Allen and George Burns do a Hawaiian dance. Talked with Lupe Velez, who has written a sequel to "Mexican Spitfire"; the Crosby twins in their black-fox uniforms were the center of attraction when they walked into the rodeo at the Coliseum Sunday with Mrs. Edmund Lowe; no one in town does the Irish jig the way Eloise and Pat O'Brien dance it. They celebrated St. Patrick's Saturday night at a birthday party dancing, and again Sunday night at the Grace Hayes lodge.

THE MOST ridiculous rumor in Hollywood is the gossip that Hedy Lamarr and Gene Markey are planning a divorce. I don't know any two people who are more in love or happier. Hedy even offered to give up her screen career to look after Gene and the recently adopted baby. This gossip is cruel to an innocent baby, for the society from which Hedy and Gene took little Jimmy is very particular about the marital security of the parents. A year must elapse before the actual adoption, and if the society feels there is anything wrong in the Markey home they can refuse the final papers.

HONEYMOON over, Jack and Mary moved into their cute little house and were unpacking boxes.

Mary dropped into a chair and mopped her face.

Jack opened a window and started for the cellar door. "Take it easy, Mary, we're almost through. Then we'll pop out to a restaurant for dinner."

"O, that'll be swell," said Mary, "but be sure to pick a good restaurant, for it'll be the last decent meal you'll get for some time. I begin cooking for you tomorrow."

Jack stopped and turned around. "Why, how come? You're a good cook, aren't you? I thought you said you'd been to a cooking school."

"That's right," she said, "and I have my diploma. But the proof of the pudding is the eating. Tomorrow morning's breakfast will decide it."

NEXT MORNING Jack unfolded his napkin, and drank his orange juice.

Mary put a dish on the table. "It's something you like," she said. "I know," he shouted, "waffles!"

She went up the stairs for a moment. Jack took a mouthful. His jaws stuck. "Holy Mike!" he gurgled. "What did she say about a diploma?—this must be it."

Then he heard her coming through the upper hall. Quick as lightning he picked up the waffles, opened the window, and threw them out in the yard.

SHE CAME RUNNING down the stairs. "What, you dear boy, all gone? You sit right still and I'll get you another batch. And the coffee." She was gone. Jack had to think fast.

He looked at his watch. "O Mary, I've just time to eat these. Then I must beat it, or I'll be late at the office. But while I'm eating, will you please run up stairs and find my other glasses? They're in the top drawer of the dresser."

She bounded up the stairs. He jumped up quickly and, picking up the waffles, scaled them out into the yard.

She was back with his glasses. As they embraced the doorbell rang. Mary smoothed out her hair.

The neighbor's little boy was on the steps, the waffles in his hands—

"Excuse me, ma'am, but is this your lineout?"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

SOMEWHERE I read a story about a little bird. The bird's kin had been wild things, their lives spent in gay, free flight over mountain tops and jungle and the restless, endless sea. But this little bird had spent its life in a cage, being born there; and always it had seen only the narrow limits and the commonplace happenings of the room in which it lived.

Yet twice every year a strange thing happened. Outside, there would come a turning of the season. The sky would warm with spring; the bare limbs and the frozen clouds would break into delicate green flame. Or, summer having passed suddenly, the gold would crumble into ash, and with the night there would be icy patten on the pane—and strange, wild cries among the trees—and a far roaring, as though in the darkness great wings passed.

WHEN EITHER of these occasions happened, the little bird would do the strange thing which I have mentioned. For five days it would sit huddled and twitching—its eyes closed, its wings fluttering—as though it, too, were set upon a journey. Yet never once had those wings known flight, or those eyes seen the glory of the sun or the wonder of the moon! Yet something in that little bird remembered!

In spite of captivity, in spite of all the dullness of its lot—a dullness which must have drugged the tiny brain as it padded the body—in spirit the bird remembered freedom and flight!

Often I think of that story, as I go about among men and women. Caged things, so pitifully many of them! Caged more terribly than any bird could be. For they are imprisoned not only in the shabby limits of poverty and ill health, but so often by the vicious bars of their own natures—by degrading habits and impulses they have never learned to control.

Yet something in them is not chained, is not broken. Something in them remembers nobler dreams.

NEVER have I seen it fail. Not in one of them. Even the lowest of them—in jails or brothels or filthy dens. No matter how sodden the flesh, how numbed the brain, how bleared the eye—ALWAYS THE SOUL REMEMBERS.

Love—courage—wisdom—honor—pride. These are the great goals of a man's life, blundering flight; and never can he fall so low that sometimes—if only to the challenge of your faith in him—he will not remember that flight.

THE SOUL REMEMBERS! THE SOUL WILL FLY AGAIN!

POST DEBUTANTE Lilian Fernald is celebrating her birthday in Boston today instead of in Bermuda as originally planned... but her spring trip to the tropics has only been postponed for a few weeks... She was to have boarded the Clipper at Long Island this morning and arrived on the Island of Easter Lilies in time to blow out the 19 candles on her cake this evening at a party planned by a group of Bermudian friends... Because of illness she has delayed the jaunt till April...

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fernald of Beacon st., Lilian made her debut at the Eastern Yacht Club early in the 1933-39 deb season... She is now devoting her time to serious study of piano and voice and taking advance courses in English and history at Erskine School...

Travel by air played an important part in Ellen Moseley's recent Southern jaunt... She went to Florida to visit Evelyn Lilly at Fort Lauderdale, and together they made several flights to Nassau and Havana... Ellen returned in time to lend a helping hand with plans for the forthcoming Vincent Club show, and Eavie came North with her for a brief visit...

MR. AND MRS. DAVID TAYLOR (Constance Matless) are picking and choosing a suitable name for the new arrival expected at their Beacon Hill home in late spring... Mrs. Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Matless of West Cedar st...

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST T. WEIR, JR., (Gretchen Bremer Knowles) have returned from their Southern honeymoon and settled in Weston... The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Bremer of Milton...

Film Premiere Social Event

Much of the beauty and charm of old New England will be revived tomorrow evening at the world premiere of a new movie based on Nathaniel Hawthorne's classic novel "The House of Seven Gables" at the Paramount Theater in Salem.

The personal appearance of the show's leading lady, Margaret Lindsay, a bevy of deb and post-deb ushers in period costumes, and an audience packed with descendants of prominent Salem merchants of Hawthorne's day, will add to the glamour of the occasion. Many of the subscribers will start the evening off in merry fashion at a supper party at the House of Seven Gables.

Celebrities will be introduced by Francis Tuckerman Parker and the usher group will include the Misses Octavia Peirson, Mary Ives, Rosamond Wheeler, Rosamond Mason, Virginia Shrigley, Eleanor Broadhead, Barbara Flippin, Elizabeth Butler and others.

Guests will include Gov. and Mrs. Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rantoul, the Misses Rantoul, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT WESTON?

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Trumbull are chairmen of the annual meeting of the First Parish Friendly Society of Weston at the Parish House this evening.

Feature of the program will be an "information please" on Weston subjects, answered by a group of experts including a doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief and two ladies. Assisting with plans for the affair are Mrs. Marshall Dwinell, Miss Charlotte Perkins, and Mrs. Brenton Dickson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Weston Blake.

New Syrups for Fritters

By MARTHA LEE

Ask some members of your family what an apple fritter or a banana fritter tastes like, and you're almost sure to get this kind of an answer, "It tastes like more." And so they do, particularly if they have over them just the right kind of syrup.

To make a rich, full-flavored syrup in a few minutes' time, a good bet is to choose one of the whole-fruit nectars.

RICH PEACH-NECTARINE SYRUP
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup honey
 1/2 cup whole-fruit peach nectarine nectar
 1/2 cup chopped pecan or Brazil nuts

Cream butter and honey together in a saucepan. Add nectar and bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Let boil briskly 3 or 4 minutes. Add nuts and cool to lukewarm. Serve over fritters, dessert waffles, or crispie suetballs. Any nectars of the whole-fruit variety—peach-nectarine, apricot, pear, plum or peach—are interchangeable in this recipe. Makes about 1 1/2 cups of sauce.

Apple fritters are good, too, with a sweet-tart lemon sauce which enhances the apple flavor:

LEMON SAUCE

1/2 cup sugar
 1 tbsp. cornstarch
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 cup boiling water
 1 tsp. grated lemon rind
 3 tsp. lemon juice
 2 tbsp. butter

Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt; gradually stir in hot water, bring to a boil and cook 15 minutes, stirring until smooth, thickened and clear; stir in lemon rind and juice and butter. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

This lemon sauce may be revised a trifle to transform it into a delightful orange sauce that will be a treat with your pineapple fritters. Here are the directions:

ORANGE SAUCE

Reduce the water in the lemon sauce recipe to 1/2 cup, and the lemon juice to 1 tablespoon; substitute grated orange for lemon rind; add 1/2 cup of orange juice. Add slightly beaten egg yolk for a richer sauce.

SWEET FRITTER BATTER

1 cup sifted flour
 1 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 2 tbsp. sugar
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 1 cup milk
 1 tsp. shortening, melted
 Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk and shortening; stir into dry ingredients. Use as cover batter for fritters. Makes 1 cup batter.

PINEAPPLE FRITTERS

1 large pineapple
 Sweet fritter batter
 Pare and core pineapple; cut in 1/2 inch slices, then cut each in quarters. Dip in batter and fry in hot deep fat (370 deg. F.) for 3 to 4 minutes, or until golden brown; drain on unglazed paper. Serve with lemon sauce. Makes 6 servings.

APPLE FRITTERS

Use recipe for pineapple fritters; substitute 2 large tart apples for pineapple and reduce milk in batter to 1/2 cup. Pare, core and cut apples crosswise in 1/2 inch slices or cut in eighths. Dip each piece in batter and fry as directed. Serve with powdered sugar and orange sauce.

LEARN TO PLAY THE PIANO

MAKE A HIT WITH POPULAR TUNES

What a social asset you have when you know how to play the piano! Friends happily gather around you for an evening of dance music, popular tunes, radio favorites. Analyze this easy method you can teach yourself to play.

In your first lessons, you actually read music—find out which keys to strike for the notes you see on your music staff.

You quickly learn to do this with the help of a simple chart showing in "life size" the keys of the part of the piano most used in popular music.

The diagram with the picture above shows the notes for the white keys starting with Middle C, which is just below the maker's name on your piano. After you learn those, other lessons show you the black keys, which are indicated by sharps and flats in your music. Then you go on to the bass, below Middle C.

As easily you learn note values, how to play march, waltz and fox-trot time. It's a great thrill when you start playing favorite tunes and know how to accompany them with a few simple bass chords.

Add to your popularity! Learn how to play the piano from our 24-page instruction book, A Short Cut to Piano Playing. Has the keyboard chart to help you read the music quickly; explains time values, flats and sharps. Send 15 cents in coins for our instruction book, A Short Cut to Piano Playing, to Boston Evening American, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of instruction book.

New Blouses Are Flattering

By ANNICE BRINK

NOTHING, I believe, adds more charm to a dignified tailor than a sheer, lovely blouse . . . and never have blouses been more charming than they are this season. What is even more interesting, never has it been possible to buy beautifully-made blouses at such low prices.

Especially do women beyond the twenties like suits of hip-flattering lines. Many well-dressed matrons and conservative young business women, who avoid anything too "cute," achieve a youthful chic by sticking to dark clothes, well-cut and simple, and wearing elegant, becoming blouses.

To these women the two confections sketched today will be a revelation and a joy. They will be delighted with the one with the jabot, which is in high favor again, by the way. This sheer blouse, short-sleeved, is trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and can be tucked into the skirt or not, as you prefer.

The jabot-neckline is particularly versatile. It is finished so that it may be buttoned up quite close, opened half-way down, or . . . if you have a nice throat, left open entirely with its folds falling gracefully over your lapels. This comes in sizes 38 to 46, and costs only $2.40.

The other blouse is appropriately called "Angel," and it will give you a celestial look. This one, too, is intended for the matron who likes prettiness without fussiness. It comes in white or pink sheer crepe, with perfectly matching lace trimming. It has a round collar, and fastens down the back with tiny pearl buttons. This is in sizes 32 to 38, also $2.

I shall be delighted to tell you in which Boston department store I found these lovely blouses. If you call Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturdays, or write, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

CLUB DANCE TO PICK 'GIRL OF THE WEEK'

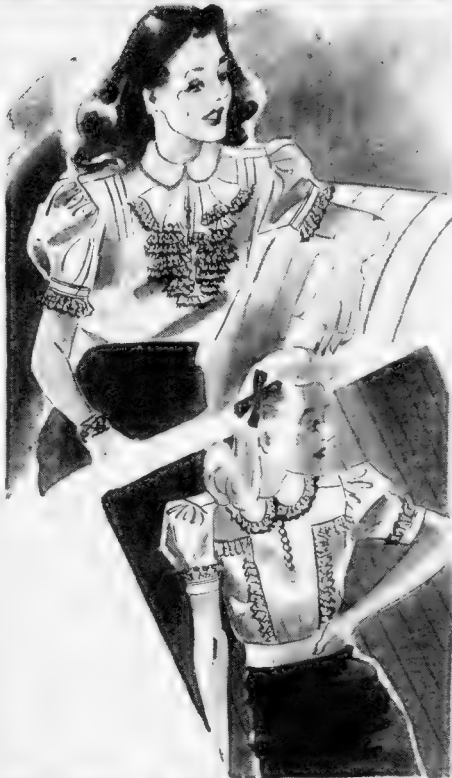

Selection of the "Girl of the Week" will be one of the outstanding features of the first annual dance of Boston's Esquire Club, set for Friday evening, April 6, at the Hotel Bradford.

Committee members include William Spellman, Joseph and Edward Dunlap of Jamaica Plain, and Richard Hart of Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer of Dartmouth are here spending a few days in New York, where they were guests at the St. Regis.

ELEANORE FRENCH, charming society songstress, says: "I'm lucky that I found Dioxogen Cream. It's a marvelous cleanser and besides it makes my skin feel good—actually pepped up." That's the extra ingredient in Dioxogen Cream found in no other cream—beneficial pure, active oxygen. See if it doesn't do your complexion a lot of good! Feels so refreshing—a tonic beauty pick-up. Feels so soft and smooth on your skin. A wonderful complexion aid. Use it morning and evening for cleansing. Also as an overnight cream. Dioxogen Cream costs no more than ordinary cold cream—as little as 20c. Get a jar tonight at your nearest drugstore, 20c, 50c and 1.00.

TWO BLOUSES that will appeal instantly to women of dignity and good taste . . . and to their purses, incidentally . . . are these of sheer crepe. The top one, in pink with matching lace . . . underneath, a lovely white blouse with a graceful and flattering jabot. Annice Brink will tell you where to get them.

Girl, 16, Soloist At Musicale

Sixteen year old Ann Roebuck, lyric soprano, will be soloist at a musicale and buffet supper at the studio of Madame Vinello Johnson in Trinity Court this evening. Guests will include Miss Roebuck's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roebuck of Winchendon, Colonel Robert Dyssart of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lucens of Newton, Mrs. Harry Otis Mayo of Belmont, Mrs. Robert S. Hoffman of Weymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Johnston of Brookline, Mrs. Benjamin Pleisman of New York, Mrs. George Cobb of Providence, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Della M. Converse, and Mr. Mardis Brown, all of Winchendon. Also attending will be Mrs. Orren Sanborn, Mrs. Edward Hamlin, Dr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hoye, Miss Sheila O'D. Rossa, and Mrs. Mary H. Traiser, of Boston.

STRINGS BEANS WITH MUSHROOMS

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute) Use institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS
2 lb. string beans
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 c. minced onion
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 c. water
2 tbsp. salad oil
1/2 tsp. granulated sugar
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 c. top milk or cream
METHOD OF PREPARATION
Cut the string beans crosswise into 1" pieces, and wash. Add mushrooms, which have been washed and sliced, onion, salt, water, salad oil, and sugar. Cover, and cook over low heat until tender—about 30 min. Add remaining ingredients, heat well, and serve. Serves 4. To serve 2 or 3, make half this recipe. One 4-oz. can mushrooms may be substituted for the fresh ones in using, brown lightly in 2 tsp. butter or margarine, add to cooked beans.
SERVE with broiled lamb chops, grapefruit salad and ice-box cake for dinner.

You Can Be Beautiful

Lanolin for Skin Cleansing

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU MAY NEVER have heard of lanolin or if you have you know vaguely that it is something you buy in a drug store. Well, lanolin is a soothing preparation for cleansing the skin, and many women, who have to take off grease paint every night, use it regularly instead of a regular cream. Moreover, it is used in hospitals so you see how pure it is.

We have wondered if some cosmetic didn't carry it as part of its stock of beauty aids, and we find that this is the case. Lanolin, which can be safely used even on very sensitive skins, is put out in a good sized jar by an excellent firm, at 59 cents, with a larger size for a dollar.

Lanolin is a soft stuff that resembles a liquefying cream, and indeed does melt into your skin immediately. If you have to cleanse your face many times a day, you should alternate it with your own cosmetic or use it all the time, if your face smartens at all after its scrubbing.

The same firm makes a Lanolin cleansing cream, which adds to the pure lanolin other ingredients to make it more effective for the dry skin. This is a soft, white product, and does a grand job on everything that grime out of the pores. Either pure lanolin or the cleansing cream, by the way, makes a good powder base, if you use a thin film of it on a dry skin, just before applying your make-up. Be sure, however, that you remove all the "dirty" cream, and toned your face with cold water or a skin tonic, before you put on fresh makeup.

I shall gladly tell you where to buy these pure and inexpensive creams if you call Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturday; or write, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

DON'T GIVE YOUR CHILD

a "Bargain" Remedy You Don't Know All About

A child's life is beyond the price of pennies. Have your physician "check up" your family frequently.

Ask Your Doctor before giving your child any remedy you aren't sure of. No family need take this chance today.

Wait. Think first. Are you absolutely sure you should give a single dose of that drug to your child? Internally, remember. You don't know anything about it, do you? It was sold, you recall, as "something just as good" and it cost you, perhaps, a few pennies less.

A very dear purchase it could be! For your own peace of mind alone, give no home remedy you're not quite certain about without getting your own doctor's opinion. And never go against it.

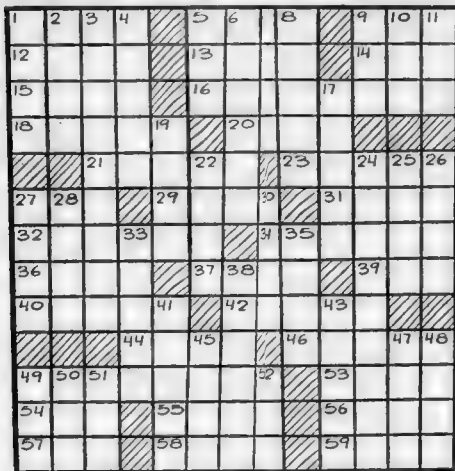

Even in the case of the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, ask your doctor what he approves. And when he says "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia," see that you get exactly that by asking expressly for

"Phillips' " when you buy . . . never ask for just "milk of magnesia." If your child prefers Phillips' is the newer form—tiny, peppermint-flavored tablets scarcely larger than an aspirin tablet that children chew like candy, give it this way. For each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips', and a big box costs only 25c at your drugstore.

NERVOUS?

You May Need Vitamin B1

Does an unexpected noise make your heart (turn handspins)? Does it seem impossible for you to relax? Are your nerves always on edge? Are you always run-down and depressed?

These symptoms may be nature's warning that you lack Vitamin B1. Restoring the needed Vitamin B1 to a nervous system, which is deficient in Vitamin B1, often helps to calm nerves, restore sound mental sleep, and to renew strength and vitality. Vitamin B1 is absolutely essential to the body if the nervous system is to function properly.

Minerva Tablets have been especially prepared for people who are not getting enough Vitamin B1 from their daily diets. A few Minerva Tablets taken daily according to directions will increase your supply of this precious vitamin. Minerva Tablets contain mineral rich sea vegetables, brewer's yeast and wheat embryo.

If you need more Vitamin B1, for your nerves, get a bottle of Minerva Tablets today for only $1.25 at your nearest Nature Food Center store. Mail orders sent postpaid. Sold only at:

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employees of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Boston Advertiser, members of their families, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1934, a Rebus puzzle will be published each week in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants must obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the contest editor, c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes to the 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. No prize money will be paid. Do not duplicate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of the tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In cases of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of the 1c fee. An individual fee will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therewith. After the contest closes, each individual fee will be duly judged. To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, former puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the securing of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions governing individual puzzles as may be announced by the contest editor. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by sender will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of any entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

PUZZLES DIVIDED INTO SERIES OF SIX

The puzzles are divided into weekly series of six. That is, the puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week comprise a series. This week's series (the Sixth) will conclude with Puzzle No. 36. Your solutions to this week's series should be submitted any time before midnight, Saturday, March 30. Subsequent series should similarly be submitted within the week following publication of the series in the Record and American. (You can follow the contest in either paper.)

ENCLOSE 10c WITH EACH SERIES

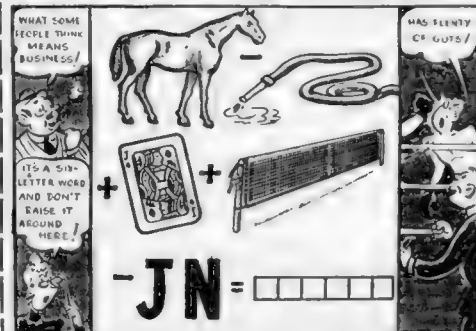

To qualify for a prize, the rules require a remittance of 10c in coin with each series of six solutions. In return, contestants will receive a special set of original, entertaining Rebus Puzzles at the conclusion of the contest.

How to Solve a Rebus Puzzle

Suppose you were asked to solve a puzzle like this: HINKE minus ROPE plus OT equals a 3 letter word. You would cut the letters H, K, E from the word HINKE leaving you IN, to which you would add the letters OT, giving you the word INT as your solution.

WHILE BOSTON hockey fans are rooting for Art Ross' Bruins to win from the Rangers in the playoff series that opens tonight they are betting on the New York outfit. There is a flood of New York and Boston money that likes the chances of the Rangers.

The Rangers were 6 to 5 favorites in the early betting, but the amount of money ready to bet on the New York club may make the Rangers a 7-to-5 choice for the series. While the Bruins managed to beat out the Rangers in the final drive in the National Hockey League, they have had plenty of trouble with the New York club all season.

Interest is high in the game in the New York Garden tonight. Boston and New England fans will anxiously await the result of the first of the playoff games. Tonight's contest should give a line on what to expect in the big series.

The Bruins enter the series with a young club. This will give the Rosses an advantage in the event of overtime contests. Young players stand up much better under such conditions than do veterans.

The youthful Bruins stars may get tired in a long, drawn out battle, but a night's rest will put them into condition for another hard game.

The playoff arrangements in hockey are probably the daffiest that exist in any sport. Two years ago Bill Stewart's Chicago Blackhawks, after a miserable season, won the Stanley Cup from Toronto which in turn had beaten the Bruins. There would be much the same in baseball if the Phillies were permitted to enter a playoff series that would eventually see them winning from the Yankees.

Hockey fans, however, seem to like this trick arrangement judging from their interest in this season's playoff contests. Try and get a ticket for the Bruin-Rangers game at the Garden on Thursday night if you doubt that the town is in the grip of a new hockey madness.

DESPITE THE ending of the Finnish-Russian war, Taisto Maki and Paavo Nurmi, Finnish runners, will continue their American tour. Nurmi was the boyhood idol of Maki. The latter is one of Finland's greatest athletes, and it is expected that he will set up new records while in this country.

Maki and Nurmi have been training for an appearance in New York. There will be a meet in New York city, and in other Eastern cities. Last night Maki lost to Walter Mehl at Kansas City in a 2-mile race.

With the war over in Finland, there is desperate need for help. It is believed that Maki and Nurmi will do their part to relieve conditions. Both athletes are members of the Finnish army, and were sent to this country in order to raise necessary financial assistance.

FRED SOMERBY, general manager of the Howard Theater, has gone to Miami, Fla., with his family for the Easter holidays. . . ART ROSS PICKS BRUINS DESPITE ODDS ON GAME

EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1940

NEW YORK, March 19—Blase New Yorkers, who take life events in much the same nonchalant as a post debutante at the Club 21, have awakened sufficiently to create an unprecedented demand for precious duets to the opening of the first round Stanley Cup championships between the defending Bruins and the Rangers here tonight.

The Broadway lads with their wise and knowing glances have installed the Bruins as 5 to 3 favorites to win the battered "mug" for the second successive year but odd by enough, they have made the Rangers a 5 to 3 choice for tonight.

Those gentlemen from the betting fraternity figure that the Rangers have a little more speed and much more finesse than the rugged Bruins and on their home ice, the Blue Shirts should do fairly well. They go on to say, though, that over the long haul out of seven series, the Bruins will wear the Patrickmen down and eventually come home on top, and then go on to successfully claim that cup, emblematic of the world's hockey championship.

ROSS DISAGREES

And since these gentlemen are willing to wager a ten or two on their opinion, their thoughts are respected by many but not by Art Ross.

When told that the Rangers were favorites tonight, Art Ross snorted:

"How can they ever figure that?"

"Those Rangers haven't any more speed" or finesse than they had last year and we haven't any more power than we had last year, yet in the first round playoffs we took the first two games from the Rangers right here in Madison Square Garden.

"Furthermore," continued Ross, "we are a better team than the Rangers all the way. I kept insisting on this all year even though plenty of fans thought I was talking through my chapeau when we lost four, and tied one in our first five meetings with the Rangers' gang this year."

"That bad start was due to the fact that we were injury ridden and the Rangers were at their peak. Since we've been back at full strength, we've taken two out of the last three from them and tied the third. In fact, we could have won that third affair if we had opened up, but a tie was all we needed to take the league championship, so we just played a cautious game."

FEARS KITCHENER KIDS

And that's the sentiments of Mr. Arthur Ross.

The wily Bruins pilot will rely largely on his Kraut line tonight. The amazing trio grabbed the first three places in individual scoring, a feat never before accomplished. Milt Schmidt took the lead with 51 points while Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer deduced for second place with 43.

"With Roy Conacher back in shape, he will work all the time with Bill Cowley and Mel Hill, Art Ross will probably keep that third line of Cain-Jackson-Wiseman intact, too, as this trio has shown marked improvement in the last two starts."

Capt. Dit Clapper, Johnny Shewchuk, Jack Crawford and Dez Smith will take care of the defense posts. This leaves either Red Hamill or Flash Hollett as the 15th man and Mgr. Art Ross will not decide on either until game time.

MAC COLVILLE RETURNS

Mgr. Lester Patrick has his Rangers in the best of shape. Mac Colville's bad hip is so completely healed that the 200-pound Johnny Polich has been sent back to Philadelphia. Mac will take his old place at right wing along with Brother Neil Colville and Alex Shibicky.

The dangerous Rangers line, as far as the Bruins are concerned, will be the Hiller-Watson-Hextall

SCORING ACE—Bruins' hopes for victory in the Stanley Cup playoff series, which open tonight in New York against the Rangers, depend to a big measure on Milt Schmidt, center on the Kraut line. Schmidt captured the individual scoring championship in the National Hockey League, with 52 points.

trio. These gentlemen will undoubtedly have the task of countering the Kraut line as they can all backcheck and all three can match the Krauts for speed.

Although they can't touch the famed Bruins line in scoring, they are dangerous at all times. The Krauts picked up 61 goals and 77 assists for the season and the Watson line has 44 goals and 61 assists. If those big Ranger defensemen get away with their usual holding and high stick tactics, they will give the Bruins plenty of trouble. Close and alert officiating will help the Rosses no little.

There's no sense speculating any further on the probable outcome. In a few hours, the boys will be at it and the opening game will soon be history.

The Bruins arrived at their quarters at the Hotel Lincoln early last night. . . most of them remained at the hotel and a few took a short stroll. . . there was an early curfew for everybody.

It's a Snap. Here's How. Let Twenty Grands buy chewing gum for you. When you smoke these smooth, full-flavored Twenty Grands, you save 20c to 35c a week. . . enough to buy gum and candy, too. . . and you get real smoking enjoyment besides.

Quality Guaranteed. The tobacco in Twenty Grand are guaranteed equal in smoking quality to those in cigarettes costing as much as 50% more.

Speedy Track Floors Star

KANSAS CITY, March 19 (AP)—Municipal auditorium's new spruce track is too fast for Marsh Farmer, one-armed Elberton, N. J. hurdler.

He tied the world indoor record of 7.3 seconds for the 60-yard high in a preliminary heat, but fell in the finals and was second behind Paul Cope of Colorado U. The event preceded Taisto Maki's two-mile exhibition for Finnish relief.

"The track fooled me," Farmer said. "It's got so much spring it threw me off stride. That's why I fell. It's the fastest track I've ever been on, but I could break the record here."

DON'T MISS
BASEBALL CONTEST

The contest is under way. The chance for rabid baseball fans to match their baseball knowledge at correcting mistake, which will appear each day in the Daily Record-Evening American concerning either a well-known member of the Red Sox or Bees baseball teams enters its second day.

No. 1 was Lefty Grove. That was simple, wasn't it fans? It's surely worth a moment of your time each day for the opportunity to win SEASON TICKETS to both the Bees and Red Sox home games!

Yes, indeed, that is the first prize. But wait, the contestant finishing second will earn himself a similar award of another season ticket to both the Red Sox and Bees baseball games. Third and fourth prizes will entitle winners to see all the Red Sox and Bees home games, respectively, for the entire season, while exact presentations will be made to the lucky winners. One hundred other winners will receive two (2) tickets to one Bees or Red Sox game.

The contest is open to anybody, excepting employees of the Daily Record and Evening American or members of their families.

A few of the clues will be: Left-handed pitchers pitching right-handed, or vice-versa; right-handed batters hitting left-handed, or vice versa; wrong numbers of players in action; players fielding without gloves, players wearing wrong uniforms; misspellings, etc.

Begin today. Transform your baseball knowledge into SEASON TICKETS, which will entitle you to a perfect seat at every local big league game.

Three Brothers

For Pin Tourney

By PINFALL

There will be three brothers battling for candlepin glory and coveted diamond medals during the coming Fifth Annual American-Record-Advertiser New England Championships which start under way at the Huntington Club a week from Saturday.

Frank, Ned and Jack Duffy will attempt to uphold the family honor while opposing each other in the men's amateur singles.

After the singles, these boys will work together in hopes of bringing one or more titles to Woburn.

Frank and Ned will roll for the Woburn Rangers together with Norman Lieberman, William Brousseau and William Duran.

In addition, Ned will team with Jack in the men's doubles, while Frank will pair with Norm Lieberman in the same class. A third doubles combination will be William Brousseau and William Duran. LIEBERMAN HTS 368.

The team of Duffy and Lieberman will be a real threat, for both are outstanding bowlers. In fact, Lieberman recently hit a 368 total for three strings, and if he can repeat the night he rolls in the Diamond Medal Championships he will have a chance of taking the singles.

Bowling is just sport for these Woburn leaders as it is for hundreds of others gainfully occupied in business or professions.

And it's the secret behind the success of this great sports event. The professional bowlers and the men who are employed or own bowling alleys are all restricted to the "open" divisions and are not eligible to go after any of the diamond medal awards.

And, although the professional divisions will be large, the bulk of the entries are pouring in from the amateur divisions.

Hamlin, Coscarart Inspire Dodgers

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Although Bill Terry has been coaching the New York Giants in base-running a lot this spring, he evidently forgot to tell his rookie pitchers what to do when the other fellow starts to run.

One of the Boston Bees' tallies in their 7-4 victory at Bradenton yesterday came on a steal of home by Carvell Rowell while rookie Jim Lynn was taking an elaborate windup. It was revealed afterward that a couple of photographers were Boston's third-base "coaches" who suggested the steal.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox is "sold" on Bob Kennedy as a potential big league infielder. Jimmy says that when and if Eric McNair is forced out of the lineup the youngster from Shreveport will take over third base.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—If Sunday's All-Star game didn't prove anything, it did provide a lot of fresh enthusiasm for Brooklyn's Dodgers as a result of Luke Hamlin's and Pete Coscarart's work. The team was so full of vigor yesterday that major league hitting forgot his lame arm and Peeewe Reese his bad hand and both were tossing the ball around against doctors' orders.

HAINES CITY, Fla.—Sid Hudson, Washington rookie flinger, looks good but Manager Bucky Harris wants to give him another trial against major league hitting before he makes any predictions. Hudson, who won 24 games in the Florida State League last season, has turned in two fine performances against the Giants and Tigers.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Frankie Frisch continues to praise the spirit of his Pittsburgh Pirates, but he doesn't figure it can take the place of experience. He released Ace Parker to Syracuse and Floyd Yount and Bill Clemensen to Albany yesterday in order to give them more experience.

LOS ANGELES—The Philadelphia Athletics are looking more like themselves, now that their long barnstorming trip is under way. Frankie Hayes, holdout catcher, finally is in the fold and played an inning at first base yesterday "to get the feel of things," and Bob Johnson, who tore a leg muscle March 7, is ready to play again. The A's started their tour today against the Chicago Cubs, who have to play for a while without Phil Cavaretta, struck by a batted ball on the ankle he broke last season.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Detroit's Tigers and Cincinnati's Reds, both dissatisfied with recent performances, met today in a "Grapefruit League" contest that carried hopes and fears for both. Manager Bill McKechnie warned the Reds that anyone who fails to hustle will find himself on the bench in a hurry.

BRADENTON, Fla.—Having tested his arm in the all-star game, Charley (Red) Ruffing of the New York Yankees is looking ahead to another good season. His arm was stiff yesterday but he reported it "felt fine" otherwise and would get stronger. The rival champions meet the Boston Bees today and Casey Stengel promised them a ball game although the Bees expected a comedown after three straight wins.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Don Padgett, holdout catcher-outfielder, has arrived in the St. Louis Cardinals' camp and it is intimated his contract troubles may be over as soon as he meets with General Manager Branch Rickey. It's reported here Rickey reached an agreement with Padgett before he left his Boston, N. C., home.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Rookie

Senators Prize Rookie Injured

ORLANDO, Fla., March 19 (INS)—Hal Quick, rookie shortstop of the Washington Senators' Springfield (Mass.) farm club, was hurrying to Orlando today after Jimmy Pofahl, $40,000 prize recruit, was injured in a game which the Senators won from the Kansas City Blues, 8-1. Pofahl, whose weak throwing has been a source of concern to Manager Bucky Harris all spring, was hurt in a collision with an umpire as he rushed to cover second base.

Pob Bragan may open the season at shortstop for the Phillies. He played errorless ball against Cleveland yesterday and banded out three singles for six hits in two days against major league pitching. George Searin, 1939 regular, is weak with the stick.

ARCADIA, Fla.—Manager Joe Cronin, whose bothersome cold finally has sent him to bed, and most of the Boston regulars were left behind today as the Red Sox came here for a game with their Louisville farm hands. The Sox have been hitting poorly with the regulars out of action, and today's game gave the rookies a chance to prove themselves.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—If it becomes a case of staying with the Cleveland Indians as a substitute outfielder or returning to the minors where he could play regularly, Clarence Campbell, rated "most likely to succeed" of the crop of rookie hardeners, would like to stay. "I think I will enough of myself to believe that once I get in the lineup I'll be awfully hard to get out," he said.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—If Chet Laubs and Wally Judnich, who have been taking turns in center field for the St. Louis Browns, keep on hitting at their present rate they won't be competitors long. "They'll both be in there if they keep going," beamed Manager Fred Haney.

YALE RUGBY VICTIM—NASSAU, Bahamas, March 18 (AP)—Nassau defeated Yale University, 20 to 0, today in their rugby football match of a series of four.

Entice Girls to Swing 'em

TROY, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Russell Sage College girls have added a new sport to their unofficial athletic curriculum—walking.

Arms swinging briskly with each long stride, the girls have their eye on an outing at the college farm promised to dormitory residents who walk the farthest and best, between Feb. 16 and late spring.

The stunt was invented by the faculty health committee and the Student Athletic Ass'n. Something new in college competition, its sponsors feel it is a lot better for the competitor than gold-fish-eating derbies.

Thus far, the 62 participating girls, collectively, have walked 2740 miles, every inch of the way vigorously.

THREE ACES . . . There are now three DiMaggios in major league baseball, and here they are as they appeared at the All-Star game in Tampa. Left to right, the brothers are: Vincent DiMaggio, who plays for the Cincinnati Reds; Joe, who is star slugger for the New York Yankees, and Dominic, who is one of the hopes of the Boston Red Sox.

SOX WOULD TOP N. L. BY 20 GAMES

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 19—There was a time when the New York Giants were our favorite ball club. That was when the Sox and the Bees were basement-minded and when the Giants fielded men like George Kelly; Frankie Frisch, Dave Bancroft, Heinie Groh, Irish Meusel, Ross Youngs, Artie Nehf and Jess Barnes.

And even in the days of Shanty Hogan, Travis Jackson, Freddie Lindstrom, Carl Hubbell and Bill Terry, the Giants were a treat to watch. But you can have them today. Not that we're quitting on a loser; simply because a franchise, so wealthy has no right to get run down at the heels as the Giants are.

SOX REGULARS MISSING

In comparison with the Red Sox, the Giants look like a bunch of semi-pros. And the Red Sox that day at Winter Haven were without Joe Cronin, Jim Tabor and Doc Cramer. Were that trio in there, it would have been called off in the third inning as no contest. That's no lie.

Which makes us firmly believe, after seeing the Reds, Giants and Dodgers, that the Red Sox would lead the National League field by 20 games.

But let's not start any arguments. Let's diagnose those Giants. In the outfield they have Mel Ott, Frank Demaree, Jo-Jo Moore, John Kuckler, John Dickshot, Morris Jones and Bob Seeds.

MOORE WASHED UP

Ott (.368) and Demaree (.364) apparently are fixtures. Moore, once a fine left fielder, is definitely washed up. He hit only .267 in 133 games last year, and faces a deeper nosedive in '40.

The fact that Manager Terry tried to trade him during the winter is the tip-off on Jo-Jo.

Rucker, a nephew of Nap, is the speed merchant from the Atlanta club, for whom the Giants coughed up $45,000. He's fast all right, perhaps faster than Dom Di Mag or the Cards Guttridge. But he has a weak arm, and although he hit .346 for the Crackers, he won't be a batting sensation for the simple reason that most of his hits are attributable to his speed. He'll never lead any league in runs batted in. Dickshot was a failure with the Pirates and Bees, Seeds with

FIVE YEARS AGO—Barney Ross accepted challenge of Lou Ambers for lightweight title fight in New York.

Cleveland and the Red Sox. Jones is a rookie up from Jersey City who seems fair at bat but otherwise hopeless.

With that sad army one can't help wondering why Terry didn't go head over heels after Joe Vossnik. Joe can hit. Nobody will take that away from him despite his .278 average last year.

Terry expects to start three new men in the infield, Babe Young at first, Mickey Witke at second, Glen Stewart at third.

HELPLESS AGAINST SOX

Zeke Bonura is still holding out for $15,000. The Giants want him only for a pinch hitter, but so desperate are they for base hits that they have offered him $13,500. He's no bargain as a fielder, you know, but neither is Babe Young.

The latter hit .364 for Knoxville last season, but Southern Association graduates with the Sox say he won't hit left-handed pitching. And Johnny McCarthy, the Giants' third first baseman, never hits more than .270.

A sad situation at first base.

At second they are no better. Mickey Witke hit .329 for Newark last year and was voted the most valuable player to his club in the league, but Mickey is one of those little fellows who looks erratic in the field and who was helpless against the pitching of Jack Wilson and Jim Bagby.

Of course one game doesn't make a season, but on that particular day the eccentric Burgess Whitehead looked much the better ball player. And Whitehead never was a stickout.

Bill Jurges (.285) is all set at short, and he's all right, too, but at third base Glen Stewart, up from Memphis, where he hit .296, and Al Glossop, a Red Sox discard, have been such flops that Bill Terry has been making flattering overtures to Bob Quinn for Tony Cuccinello.

A sad set-up in the infield when you recall Kelly, Frisch, Banny and Groh.

Harring Danning (.313) will take care of most of the catching. No. 2 catcher, Ken O'Dea, has never developed into the receiver he should have been because of his long bench tenure with Cubs and Giants.

And the pitching! Their best bet are holdover Melton (12-15), Gumbert (18-11), Hubbell (11-9) Schumacher (13-10), Lohrman (12-13) and Salvo (4-10) and newcomers Harold Vandenberg (15-10 with Jersey City), 33-year-old Roy Joiner (21-8 with Jersey City) and Steve Trumbach (21-8 with Fort Smith).

If that outfit finishes higher than fifth in the National League, it will be only because the other clubs have nothing to offer.

SPEED-RAY

Of B. C. Football

SPRING FOOTBALL and the SPEED-RAY, which freezes motion at 100,000th of a second, was in the air yesterday as Boston College started prepping toward another football season at the William Taft School. Here the Edgerton SPEED-RAY, which is an exclusive new feature of the American-Record and Sunday Advertiser, catches Henry Woroncz off the ground as he snarles a pass (indoors), and, at right, Coach McKeever receives the charge of Ted Williams, Gloucester backfield candidate.

Regular on Dobie's '37 B. C. Team Answers Spring Football Call

A skeleton squad of Boston College grid hopefuls tomorrow will complete its three-day pre-Easter vacation practice session which started yesterday at the Page school in Brighton under the direction of Head Coach Frank Leahy and his assistants, Ed McKeever, Ted Galligan, Johnny Druze and Joe McArdle.

The present squad is composed principally of freshmen and those who didn't participate in football last year. Included in the latter group are Ted Williams of Gloucester, a transfer student from Notre Dame, Henry "Hank" Woroncz of Brockton, who played first string and on the '37 Eagle machine, before leaving school, and Joe McNulty, captain and quarterback of the '38 frosh team who was out of school last year. Williams and Woroncz are at present members of the sophomore class. McNulty is a freshman.

After tomorrow's practice the squad will disband until April, when Coach Leahy will issue a general call for spring football practice.

The squad which reported yesterday included besides Williams, Woroncz and McNulty, the following: Rocco Canale, Bob DeGiacomo, John Paul Regan, Tom Kennedy, Fred Naiments, Bill Powers, Al Fiorentino, Jim Young, Bob Andrews, Ralph Nash, Mickey Connolly, Wally Boudreau, Justin McGowan, Jim Law, Ed Murda, Charles Toole, Carl Lucas, Bob Radley, Mike Holovak, Joe Repko and Don Currian.

ANOTHER WILLIAMS—Boston College's coaching brain trust is hopeful that their Ted Williams, former Gloucester High school star, may break into headlines as often as the Red Sox famed rookie. Here, Williams is caught by the SPEED-RAY Camera taking Assistant Coach Ed McKeever out of a play in the Eagles spring practice session. Williams is a transfer from Notre Dame.

Trained and managed by his father, young Managoff has wrestled his way to a contender's position in the eastern rings this season. He had two bad breaks. One of these was an illness that kept him inactive a month. The other was his bout with Ernie Dusek in Boston on Jan. 31st.

Mrs. Page Has Seven Stroke Golf Lead

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., March 19 (AP) — Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, chubby Chapel Hill housewife, appeared to be in fine form today as she entered the second 18-hole round of the mid-South women's golf tournament with a seven-stroke lead over her nearest rival, Deborah Verry of Worcester, Mass., the 1936 mid-South champion.

Miss Verry had a 43-41-83. Finishing third, just one stroke above par, was Mrs. Tom Rudel of New York, with 43-41-84. Three players were tied in the next place with 85's, Mrs. George Corcoran of Thomasville, Mrs. J. J. Lawlor of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Helen Waring of Flushing.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 19 (AP) — Henry Russell (Red) Sanders, who played quarterback at Vanderbilt University 15 years ago, is coming back as head football coach.

Clark Named President

MIAMI, Fla., March 19 (AP)—Racing circles here believed today that reports Hialeah Park race track might be sold had been set at rest by the election of John C. Clark of Binghamton, N. Y., as president of the Miami Jockey Club.

Clark, 48-year-old advertising and radio executive, was elected at a board of directors' meeting yesterday to succeed F. A. B. Widener as head of the club that operates Hialeah.

The resignation of Hunter Lyon as vice president and member of the board was accepted at the session, and three new board members were elected.

They were Warren Wright of Chicago, owner of Calumet Farm Stable; George Bull of New York, president of the Saratoga Racing Association; and Seofield Andrews, of Philadelphia, attorney for the Jockey Club.

The new directors succeed Lyon, DeWitt Page of Bristol, Conn., who died recently, and John Hertz of Chicago, who asked that he not be re-elected.

Wright and Charles E. McCullough, vice-president and chairman of the board, respectively, of Chicago's Arlington Park, recently offered to purchase Hialeah, but the election of Clark was looked upon here as indication that there was no intention by the Widener interests to sell.

Joseph E. Widener was re-elected chairman of the board of directors and other directors were continued in office.

NEW JERSEY SENATE O. K. HORSE RACING

TRENTON, N. J., March 19 (AP)—A post-midnight session of the State Senate finally gave New Jersey today the basic machinery for resumption of horse racing with betting after a lapse of 43 years.

The Republican-controlled Senate confirmed Democratic Governor A. Harry Moore's nomination of four commissioners to control racing and pari-mutuel betting.

The unsalaried bi-partisan commission, authorized by the Republican-dominated Legislature after eight months of wrangling, is made up of:

Louis A. Reilly, Newark Democrat, who will be chairman of the commission and continue as state commissioner of banking and insurance.

Joseph A. Brophy, Democrat, former mayor of Elizabeth.

William H. Cane, Hackensack Republican, a leader in the harness racing at Goshen, N. Y.

John Rogers, Maplewood Republican, former internal revenue collector for North Jersey.

Moore signed the racing-betting bill last night, just a week after it cleared the faction-split G. O. P.-controlled Legislature.

The law was made possible by a public referendum last June which amended the 1897 constitutional ban on gambling so as to allow pari-mutuel horse racing betting.

In the stands instead of in the saddle yesterday was Jockey Jack Finelchum who figured in a spill at Tropical Saturday. The apprentice sensation bruised his leg and was walking with the aid of a cane.

His knee is swollen and it is doubtful if he sees any action until the end of the week. The other two involved in the accident—Charlie Wells and Irving Anderson—were not injured as badly as Finelchum.

Another jockey injury case is Don Meade, who injured his hand in the first race yesterday and cancelled the rest of his mounts. He was supposed to have ridden Bull Whip in the featured St. Patrick's Purse, but that assignment went to Charlie Durando.

Durando piloted the son of Bull Dog to his first victory in six weeks, winning the race by a nose over Herbert M. Woolf's Technician. Bull Whip raced the mile and 70 yards in 1:43. Commenda-

$100 Fine Waits Sully's Return

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19 —"Lefty" Sullivan, southpaw knuckle-baller of the Bees, will learn, when he eventually returns here, that he has been fined $100 for missing a bus in Miami this morning.

"Sully" pitched part of the game for the Bees against the Phils at Miami Sunday. He hasn't been seen since.
